THREE THINGS You Should Know:

There is a guest column in today's Paper from Joyce Fitzwater about the Community Christmas Dinner. Joyce has done a phenomenal job of keeping this wonderful tradition alive for years, and as our pal Honest Hoosier might say, a tip of the seed corn cap to her! But Joyce tells The Paper that it's time for someone else to take over organizing and planning the event. If you might be interested, please let Joyce know. It's a project that will warm your heart! You can reach Joyce at (765) 366-2341.

We hear that in a couple of weeks there might be a corny rendition of The Night Before Christmas in your favorite Montgomery County daily. For the life of us, we're not sure why folks seem to like this, but we've been asked about it several times. So stay tuned!

🔼 A dutiful 72-year-old Serbian husband built his house according to his wife's specifications soon after they got married many years ago. Since then, Vojin Kusic has been rebuilding it to fulfill his wife's wishes, says the Association of Mature American Citizens. Not long ago Mrs. Kusic complained that she was not particularly happy with the view from her window. That prompted Vojin to build a completely new home. This time he devised a way to allow his better half to change her views whenever the notion struck by simply activating a device that rotates the whole house a full 360 degrees. He built it by himself atop a rotating mechanism with electric motors and wheels from a military transport vehicle. The new home can make a complete about face at its fastest speed in 22 second or 24 hours at its slowest speed.

Frey elected district president

Montgomery County Commissioner John Frey was elected by his peers to be the President of the Indiana Association of County Commissioners West Central District during their annual conference last week.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, INDIANA

It was a move that Tippecanoe County Commissioner Tom Murtaugh said was a good one. "Frey will be a great spokesperson for their district and is dedicated to improving local government."

As district president, Frey will represent the elected county commissioners in Boone, Clay, Clinton, Fountain, Hendricks, Montgomery, Morgan, Owen, Parke, Putnam, Tippecanoe, Vermillion, Vigo and Warren counties. The IACC is represented by six districts in the state. Frey will serve on the IACC's board of directors, which determines policies and legislative goals for the associ-

Christmas dinner plans are now underway

Frey's vice president will be Vigo County Commissioner Chris Switzer. The district meeting also included discussion on current issues pertaining to county government in the district.

The elections were held during the IACC's 2021 Annual Conference, the largest gathering of county commissioners in the state. The three-day conference included several different workshops, and breakout sessions that were designed specifically for county commissioners and their support staff. Commissioner Frey and others attended several training workshops on topics focusing

State putting out free Narcan vending machines

Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb announced the placement of Indiana's first-ever naloxone vending machine at the St. Joseph County Jail in South Bend. The machine is one of 19 to be placed statewide and will be available for use by the public.

"There is no single solution to ending this epidemic that has taken the lives of thousands of Hoosiers," Holcomb said Tuesday. "We can, however, take thoughtful steps to help shake the scourge of addiction from our communities. Naloxone vending machines are a practical tool to prevent overdoses and save lives."

Naloxone, also known as Narcan, is a medication approved to reverse an overdose from opioids and is given when a person is showing signs of opioid overdose to block the deadly effects of the overdose.

The vending machines are manufactured by Shaffer Distribution Company and programmed to dispense free naloxone kits. Each kit includes a single dose of naloxone, instructions for use, and a referral to treatment for substance use disorder. The machine holds up to 300 naloxone kits and is free to access.

Overdose Lifeline, Inc., an Indiana nonprofit dedicated to helping those affected by substance use disorder, is partnering with the Family and Social Services Administration (FSSA) Division of Mental Health and Addiction (DMHA) to identify jails, hospitals, and other community sites interested in a vending machine to distribute the lifesaving medication. Machines are confirmed to be placed in public areas of the Wayne and DuBois County jails.

Overdose Lifeline will purchase the vending machines using federal grant funds totaling $72,600 made available through DMHA. There is no cost to entities that implement a vending machine.

Douglas Huntsinger, executive director for drug prevention, treatment, and enforcement for the state of Indiana, unveiled the vending machine at a public event Tuesday. Huntsinger was joined by St. Joseph County Sheriff William Redman and Overdose Lifeline Executive Director Justin Phillips.

'We must continue to ensure widespread access to naloxone, given the lingering impact of COVID-19 and the increased supply of fentanyl in our 92 counties," Huntsinger said. "Every life lost to a drug overdose is one too many. Naloxone offers the opportunity to get individuals with substance use disorder on the path to long-term recovery."

Indiana reported a 32 percent increase in fatal overdoses during the 12-month period beginning in April 2020 and ending in April 2021, according to provisional data released in November by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

"This machine gives St.

Joseph County residents and our recently released inmates zero-barrier access to a medication that could mean the difference between life and death," Sheriff Redman said. "St. Joseph County Jail is proud to be the recipient of the state's first naloxone vending machine, and we applaud Governor Holcomb's commitment to address the drug epidemic." To learn about Overdose Lifeline's naloxone distribution opportunities or to request a free naloxone kit, visit www. overdoselifeline.org.

Red Cross: Donors needed to address historically low blood supply

Nearly two years into the pandemic, everyone has earned a holiday break with their family and friends. But as the nation gathers again for celebrations this season, the American Red Cross, which provides 40% of the country's blood, is facing historically low blood supply levels.

Busy holiday schedules, breaks from school and winter weather all contribute to a drop in blood and platelet donations this time of year. Those factors, combined with the ongoing challenges of COVID-19, make it vital for donors to make an appointment to give as soon as possible. If more donors don't come forward to give blood, some patients requiring a transfusion may potentially face delays in care.

Donors are urged to schedule an appointment now by using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). There is no blood donation waiting period for those who have received a flu shot or a Moderna, Pfizer or Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccine or booster, so long as they are symptom-free.

To encourage donors to help address the historically low blood supply this holiday season, all who come to give Dec. 17-Jan. 2 will receive an exclusive Red Cross long-sleeved T-shirt, while supplies last.

Blood drive safety Each Red Cross blood drive and donation center follows the highest standards of safety and infection control, and additional precautions – including face masks for donors and staff, regardless of vaccination status – have been implemented to help protect the health of all those in attendance. Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving at the drive.

Save time during dona-

Donors can also save up to 15 minutes at the blood arive by completing a RapidPass®. With Rapid-Pass®, donors complete the pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of donation, from a mobile device or computer. To complete a RapidPass®, follow the instructions at RedCross-Blood.org/RapidPass or use the Red Cross Blood Donor App.

To donate blood, individuals need to bring a blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification that are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also must meet certain height and weight requirements.

Health insights for donors

At a time when health information has never been more important, the Red Cross is screening all blood, platelet and plasma donations from self-identified African American donors for the sickle cell trait. This additional screening will provide Black donors with an additional health insight and help the Red Cross identify compatible blood types more quickly to help patients with sickle cell disease who require trait-negative blood. Blood transfusion is an essential treatment for those with sickle cell disease, and blood donations from individuals of the same race, ethnicity and blood type have a unique ability to help patients fighting sickle

Donors can expect to receive sickle cell trait screening results, if applicable, within one to two weeks through the Red Cross Blood Donor App and the online donor portal at RedCrossBlood.org.

Welcome back to Bits'n'Pieces, a weekly look at some of the interesting, funny, comical and sometimes outright weird things that happen in and around Montgomery County. Have something you think should go into Bits? E-mail it to us at bits@thepaper24-7.com, won't you please?

SEVERAL OF you have mentioned you like Honest Hoosier's Christmas memories of late. Thanks for that! He's going to continue until the big day. We hope you enjoy.

A FEW of you have also let us know you aren't thrilled over the missing comics and puzzles. We aren't sure when they'll be back. We're working on some changes for that page and one thing we want to know is how important comics and puzzles are to you. If you'd let us know, we'd surely appreciate it!

A BIG TIP of the seed corn cap to everyone involved with the annual Christmas Parade through downtown Crawfordsville. Most folks have no idea how much work goes on behind the scenes and the staff, board and volunteers with our Chamber of Commerce don't get nearly enough credit for their yeoman efforts. Good job, one and all!

HAVE YOU driven out in the country past the new Tempur Sealy site? LOTS of earth being moved. Sure is exciting! Kind of like a few decades ago when Nucor was being built – an event that changed Montgomery County (for the better). We suspect a couple of decades from now, Tempur Sealy will be looked at the same way.

SPEAKING OF the potential growth, we hear some rumblings that there might be more good news on the economic front not far away. Stay tuned and let's see if Santa brings us another present or two!

DO YOU regularly read the comics? If so, we'd like to hear from you. As part of our ongoing revamping and redesigning with our web site, we are taking a long look at our comic page - from top to bottom. Do we have the right mix of comics and puzzles? Do we even need comics and puzzles? If so, which ones? In the old days, comics were one of the most well-read pages. But then again, so was the TV listing page. Let us hear from you by e-mail Tim at ttimmons@thepaper24-7.com. We'd appreciate it!

Bits 'N' PIECES

Wednesday, Dec. 8, 2021

ANYONE ELSE frustrated with the haphazard parking and absolute reckless pulling in and out of traffic of delivery services? We've heard more griping this year than any other?

SO WHAT'S going on with the Ben-Hur building? Big ol' dumpsters on the east side of the building suggest something good, perhaps?

ON THE other end of downtown, we see bits and pieces (pardon the pun) of work being done on the building by the train depot and CPD station.

BOILER UP! Here's a tip of the seed corn cap to the Purdue Boilermaker men's basketball team. For the first time in the school's storied history, the Black and Gold are No. 1 in The AP college basketball

WE ADMIT that we probably focus on sports a bit too much in this space. But our Indianapolis Colts won again last week. And once again, they ran the ball well. Here's an interesting (and revealing) statistic. The Colts are 7-0 in games this year when Jonathan Taylor rushes for 100 or more yards. Overall, the Colts are 7-6 and have a bye this week.

OK, ONE LAST sports note, here's a sad note that you have probably already heard that last year's Kentucky Derby winner Medina Spirit died of a heart attack during a workout in California.

WE KEEP saying this, but please patronize advertisers in The Paper. If it wasn't for them, there would be no daily edition. We appreciate our local businesses and we hope you do, too! We don't expect folks to care that all the money spent with the Journal-Review goes to Alabama, but we surely care a lot that the money spent here stays right here!

WE HAD A LOT of very positive feedback on our note last week chiding the houses and vehicles displaying the F-bomb on vulgar signs – regardless of which political party it's for or against. "That's just disgusting," one long-time female reader of The Paper told us. "I'm ashamed to live here when I see those driving up and down Washington Street."

ALONG THOSE same civic pride (or lack thereof) lines, it was both great and terrible to be a Hoosier this weekend. On one hand, the whole country was watching as the Big Ten title game took place in the heart of downtown Indianapolis. On the other hand, it was once again terrible to learn that seven people were shot within a day of the game. There was at least one fatality, and in one case, children were in the back seat of a car being shot at. When will this end?

GO HOOSIERS! Hoosier academics, that is! Julia Williams, a professor of English at Rose-Hulman, appears on Jeopardy this week (tomorrow, in fact). We wish her all the best!

NOW IF ONLY the subscribers of DISH could see it . . . too bad they can't!

SPEAKING OF . . . when will DISH give its customers WTHR, WISH and WNDY back – not to mention the others that are missing that aren't based in Indianapolis?

FOR OUR riddle this week we simply want to know what goes up and down without moving?

OK, CONTINUING the knock-knock jokes . . .

Knock knock. Who's there?

Witch.

Witch who?

Witch one of you will get a subscription first to Montgomery County's favorite (and biggest) daily edition?

HERE'S AN interesting tidbit from one of our favorite publications (besides The Paper of Montgomery County, of course), the Farmer's Almanac. These are three different quotes that all have appeared on the pages of the magazine. The first is from Ben Franklin - "What you would seem to be, be really." The next one is from Thomas Jefferson: "He is a man whose soul might be turned wrong side outwards without discovering a blemish." And the last is from Will Rogers: "Live in such a way that you would not be ashamed to sell your parrot to the town gossip.'

CONTINUING our official countdown . . .

The WIBC Radiothon kicks off at 6 a.m. on Friday, Dec. 10 and wraps up at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 12. Throughout the live broadcast, listeners will get to hear from the people closest to The Salvation Army's services in Central Indiana, including staff, pastors, clients, volunteers, and donors to the organization. Live music will also play a big part in the broadcast on Saturday as local performers help to put listeners and shoppers at Sullivan Hardware and Gardens in a Christmas

"We are so thankful for our long relationship with WIBC and Sullivan Hardware for this annual event," shared Major Marc Johnson, Divisional Commander for The Salvation Army Indiana Division. "Sullivan Hardware graciously provides a festive location where listeners can come and see the WIBC Radiothon in action! Of, course, this event could not be successful without the generous support of the listeners who call in and donate. We are thankful for each donation, and appreciate your support as we seek to meet the needs of Hoosiers."

Here's how the public can help:

The WIBC Radiothon helps to fund Salvation Army programs yearround in Central Indiana. This includes activities for all ages at community centers in the heart of Fountain Square and near Eagle Creek on North High School Road, addiction treatment programs at its Harbor Light Center on North Tibbs Avenue, and 24/7 secure housing at a downtown shelter for women and children fleeing domestic violence, human trafficking, and homelessness. Additional support services are offered in donut counties, including a food pantry, emergency financial assistance, and case management.

In addition to regular services and programs, The Salvation Army has been responding to the increased need in the community as local residents face job loss, reduction of hours, virtual learning challenges, and hunger in their homes. Since the beginning of the pandemic, The Salvation Army of Central Indiana has provided almost half a million dollars in financial assistance to struggling households. An additional 269,000 meals and 45,000 safe nights of shelter have been provided in the Indy metro area.

Every donation given to The Salvation Army through the 27th Anniversary WIBC Radiothon provides help and hope to those in need, and all gifts stay right here in Central Indiana. Visit Salvation-ArmyIndiana.org to learn more about how you can help The Salvation Army ensure that Hope Marches On in 2022.

Farmer sentiment weakens as production cost concerns mount

The Purdue University/ CME Group Ag Economy Barometer slipped 5 points in November to a reading of 116 as producers continue to be pessimistic about both the current and future outlook of the agricultural economy. The Index of Current Conditions declined 7 points in November to a reading of 128, and the Index of Future Expectations fell 4 points to 110. November marked the lowest reading of 2021 for all three measures of producer sentiment and comparing year-over-year, the barometer is 30% lower than in November of 2020. The Ag Economy Barometer is calculated each month from 400 U.S. agricultural producers' responses to a telephone survey. This month's survey was conducted Nov. 15-19.

"Farmers are facing sharp rises in production costs coinciding with fluctuating crop and livestock prices, the prospect of changing environmental and tax policy, uncertainty over COVID-19, as well as a host of other issues, all of which are negatively impacting farmer sentiment," said James Mintert, the barometer's principal investigator and director of Purdue University's Center for Commercial Agriculture.

Rising production costs, including those for fertilizer, farm machinery, seed and fuel, are of increasing concern to farmers. For example, in November 43% of survey respondents said they expect farm input prices to rise by more than 16% in the upcoming year. This compares with the actual average rate of farm input price inflation over the past decade of less than 2%.

Supply chain problems could be responsible for a drop in the Farm Capital Investment Index. The index declined 7 points to a reading of 39, the lowest reading since April of 2020. In November, 44% of producers said their farm machinery purchase plans were impacted by low farm machinery inventories. When asked what their biggest concerns are for their farming operation in the upcoming year, nearly half (47%) of survey respondents chose higher input costs.

Unlike the broader sentiment measures, the Farm Financial Performance Index rose 2 points to 106 in November, 10% above its low reading in June of 2021.

"Compared to late spring, strong crop yields for fall harvested crops and strength in wheat prices helped push 2021 crop revenue and profitability estimates up, compared to one year ago," Mintert said.

Producers remain very optimistic about farmland values over both the next 12 months and the next five years, as both the short-term and long-term farmland value expectations indices remain near their peaks.

Mintert says, "Strong cash flows from crops in 2021, low interest rates and, possibly, rising concerns about inflation continue to propel farmland values higher.'

Somewhat surprisingly, given the concerns about rising input costs, 52% of corn/soybean producers expect cash rental rates to rise in 2022 compared with 43% in October. This marks the highest percentage of producers reporting that they expect rental rates in 2022 to rise since the May 2021

Both interest and awareness of leasing farmland for solar energy projects is on the rise. In November, 11% all respondents reported having a discussion with a company or companies about leasing farmland for solar energy production; however, reported lease rates continue to vary widely. In November, 25% of producers who reported having discussions with a solar leasing company said they were offered less than $500 per acre, while 34% of producers said they were offered a lease rate of $1,000 or more per acre.

Concerns over governmental policy and regulations remain elevated among farmers. On the November 2021 survey, 82% of respondents said they expect more restrictive environmental regulations, 74% expect higher estate taxes, and 77% expect higher income taxes in the years ahead. These percentages compare to results from the October 2020 survey when just 41% of producers expected more restrictive environmental regulations and 35% expected higher estate taxes over the next five years.

Each month, the Purdue Center for Commercial Agriculture provides a short video analysis of the barometer results. For even more information, check out the Purdue Commercial AgCast podcast. It includes a detailed breakdown of each month's barometer, in addition to a discussion of recent agricultural news that affects farmers.

prepares future candidates for running. Nothing introduces potential candidates to the purveyance of local departments and offices and the spirit of teamwork that Montgomery County and cities need. Bipartisanship powers local politics.

"We are a team," Mayor Todd Barton reiterated because local politics bears little resemblance to state and national divisions. Former and current council members Mike Reidy and Aaron Morgan pointed out that here, politics affects everyone's daily lives: house to house, traffic light to trash pickup. Representing locals on councils and boards starts with listening, as does running for local office. Running for office only begins the work of doing one's best to represent the will of the people, and working across differences to build a thriving community. The other party or council members are not competing on different teams.

"Maybe the other team is Greencastle or Lebanon," Barton jested lightly.

The "Running for Office" event, held by Purdue's Extension Office and sponsored in part by the League of Women Voters, offered an excellent primer for those who want to know how local government works and how to run for office. If you missed it, here's what you need to Running for office is a serious commitment that requires preparation, knowledge and skill.

The basic checklist includes: being a registered voter in the district you want to represent. Hoosier candidates must be a resident of that district for a year before the general election. A felony conviction prohibits running for office. Naturally, an elected official must take an oath of office, thus they must obtain a surety bond guaranteeing that they as an official will fulfill the duties of the office. Some offices require specialty qualifications for certain offices. For instance, an assessor needs to know about land surveying and maps. Of course ethical standards exclude anyone who holds two "lucrative" offices at once. In short, candidates should have no conflict of interest. Though "people don't fit neatly in one box," or party, as Mayor Barton said, for better or worse, the rules for running in primaries require candidates to either be certified as members of a political party. Otherwise, independents and minor party candidates can run in the general election, if they obtain quite a number of signatures. The number must be equal to or more than 2 percent of the total number of votes cast in the last election for secretary of state in the election district that candidate seeks to represent. In addition, they must have voted in the last two primary elections.

Practically, there are some forms required to file as a candidate, with deadlines to file these coming up starting right after the new year. The window to file is between Jan. 5 and Feb. 4, 2022. If a candidate wants to run for school board, the dates are later: July 27 to Aug. 26, 2022. Most deadlines to file are noon at the Montgomery County Clerk's office, though federal and state offices, along with judges and prosecutors are through the Indiana

In 2022, offices that are open include: U.S. Senator, U.S. Representative District 4, State Senators for Districts 7 and 23, Representatives for Districts 13, 28, 41 and 44. The Secretary of State, Auditor of State, Treasurer of State and Circuit Court Judge. Locally, the county needs an auditor, treasurer, sheriff, prosecutor, assessor, commissioner for District 2, county council members for Districts 1 through 4, and all the township trustees and boards.

Now that interested candidates know the basics, the panelists recommended forming a committee of experts because no candidate can know all the specifics on fundraising for flyers, signs and events. There are a lot of potential voters, and even more constituents in this largely rural community. In rural areas, this can mean driving some significant mileage from one address to the next. It also helps to have a financially educated and savvy committee member, other committee members with knowledge of communications and advisors. Yet Mayor Barton reminded attendees that any candidate has the final say. Don't get caught by indecision between competing voices. Know your passion and what the office allows you to do, and own your vision, the panelists advised.

The League of Women Vot¬ers is a nonpartisan, multi-is¬sue political organization which encourages informed and active participation in government. sexually abusing her. Next thing you know, Shuai disappears. And when she is next seen a few weeks later, she has nothing more to say on the subject and has a spooky smile pasted on her face.

A perfect world? Far from it.

Back home, we've stood tall against tyranny and oppression for almost 250 years now. We've never been perfect, but we strive to get better.

We've been able to stand tall thanks to our veterans. And with Christmas right around the corner, it's a great time to keep in mind those heroic men and women and say thank you for what they've done. There are many ways to do that, and to help the ones in need. From the Wounded Warrior Project to various veterans' organizations, there are plenty of ways to step up. If you are a veteran and you need help, the state has the Military Family Relief Fund. It offers emergency grants for veterans and family members experiencing financial hardship. MFRF, administered by The Indiana Department of Veterans Affairs, is for essential family expenses like rent or mortgage payments, utilities, food, medical expenses and transportation (vehicle payment, emergency repairs, insurance).

Election Division.

Veterans can get up to $2,500, and possibly more. Any Indiana resident active in the military, or a veteran with honorable discharges or under honorable conditions and certain other-than-honorable discharges, is eligible. Just apply at: www. in.gov/dva/about-idva/ links/military-family-relief-fund

You know, I get the fact that we have a lot of disagreements right now -the worst in decades. But without the military, you wouldn't be reading this today. We wouldn't be here as a country.

I don't know a lot, but I know this. We just observed the 80th anniversary of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. Thanks to those active in the military today, and those who stood watch before, we are able to argue about philosophy, sports, politics and beyond. Here's hoping we don't argue about the importance of those veterans and the men and women still on duty. We need them. It ain't a perfect world.
