➔ THREE THINGS You Should Know:

1 The Indianapolis Home Show kicks off Tuesday and if you'd like to score some free tickets (as many as six to eight), just send a selfie of your beautiful smiling face to ttimmons@thepaper24-7.com and tell us why you like The Paper. Also, be sure to let us know how many tickets you want. If we use your photo in The Paper, you win the tickets. It's that easy! But time is running out, so best hurry!

2 Speaking of, The Indianapolis Home Show runs until Jan. 30 and tickets run $15 at the door (unless you get free ones from your friends at Montgomery County's favorite Paper!). Mina Starsiak from HGTV's Good Bones will be on hand, and the Centerpiece will once again be a home constructed inside the Indiana State Fairgrounds by Fischer Homes. Doors open at 10 a.m. each day and close at 8 p.m. most days, with the exception of Sundays that close at 5 p.m.

3 We've held off on raising our subscription prices again (and yes, the boss being out might have something to do with that!). But we're not sure for how much longer that'll be. So if you want to avoid the increase - renew your subscription now! That way you can enjoy Sunday mornings with a steaming cup of coffee, a comfy place to sit and your tablet so you can read The Paper's Sunday Edition. And you can look forward to the daily edition each morning at 4 a.m. And you can get all seven days right now for only $42 a year - or you can buy a Sunday-only subscription for just $29 No other newspaper in Montgomery County offers that! But then again, we've been able to say that about a lot of things for quite a while now.

Ask Rusty - How do I get back benefits withheld due to the earnings limit?

Dear Rusty: If I work and take Social Security before my full retirement age, how can I find out how I will be paid back the money withheld after I pass the earnings limit?

Signed: Returning to Work

Dear Returning:

What you're referring to is that Social Security limits how much you can earn while collecting early benefits (before your full retirement age, or "FRA"). The earnings limit for 2022 is $19,560 and if your earnings exceed that while collecting early SS benefits, you'll be required to pay back some of your benefits.

Except during the year in which you attain your FRA, you'll have to give SS back benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit, which can be done either by having your benefits withheld for a time or repaying what is owed in a lump sum. In the year you reach your FRA, the limit goes up by about 2.5 times and the amount you need to pay back is less, and after you reach your full retirement age there is no longer a limit to how much you can earn. But if you have benefits withheld because you exceeded the limit while collecting early benefits, you will get some of that withheld money back after you have reached your full retirement age.

When you reach your FRA, Social Security will automatically adjust (increase) your benefit to reflect the number of months your benefits were withheld. So, for example, if you originally claimed Social Security at age 63 but were still working and, over time, you had benefits withheld for 12 months because you exceeded the earnings limit, they'll recompute your benefit at your FRA as though you applied 12 months later than you actually did. That will happen automatically and will slightly increase your monthly benefit amount starting at your full retirement age. So, you don't get all withheld money back in a lump sum - rather they increase your benefit a bit at your FRA so that eventually, over time, you may recover what was withheld because you exceeded the limit.

Debunking misconceptions about gout

(Family Features) When many people think of gout, they often picture swelling and pain in the big toe. However, gout - an extremely painful form of inflammatory arthritis - can occur in any joint when high levels of uric acid in the blood lead to the formation of urate crystals.

If your body creates too much uric acid or cannot clear uric acid properly, you may experience sudden and sometimes severe gout attacks, called flare-ups, which include pain, swelling or redness in your joints. The condition can disrupt many aspects of daily living, including work and leisure or family activities.

"I was diagnosed with kidney disease in 2009 and it wasn't too long after that I started dealing with gout issues," said registered nurse Theresa Calderon. "Gout affects your quality of life in a lot of different ways. You're going through days of pain and no one knows it because you don't look sick."

More fruits and vegetables and fewer sugary snacks in your diet can help you combat diabetes.

Small steps can make a very big difference in preventing diabetes

(NAPSI)—Prediabetes is a serious medical condition that, if untreated, can put you at increased risk of developing type 2 diabetes, heart disease, and stroke. But the good news is that by making some healthy lifestyle changes, you can manage or even reverse your prediabetes and lower your chances of it developing into type 2 diabetes.

Prediabetes affects approximately 88 million U.S. adults and occurs when your blood glucose, also called blood sugar, is higher than what is considered normal and recommended for you but not high enough to be diagnosed with type 2 diabetes. Most people with prediabetes are not aware that they have it, and there are usually no symptoms. People with risk factors for prediabetes include people who have overweight or obesity, are 45 years old or older, have a parent or

Interesting thoughts while clearing out a holiday notebook

Here are some thoughts while clearing out my holiday notebook:

COVID-19 has recorded its first significant impact of the 2021-22 Big Ten men's basketball season.

Michigan, probably the biggest disappointment in the league, called off games against arch rival Michigan State on Jan. 8 and pre-season co-Big Ten favorite Purdue on Tuesday night because school officials declared the Wolverines fell below the Big Ten roster minimum of seven available scholarship players.

The Wolverines' game at Illinois on Friday remained in doubt as of press time. The Big Ten correctly revised its forfeiture policy, no longer automatically declaring a loss for the school unable to field a team. However, the cynic in me wonders about the timing of this mass infection in Ann Arbor. Avoiding the Spartans, Boilermakers and possibly the Fighting Illini at this time could mean the difference from Michigan remaining in title contention to possibly being 1-5 in the league and out of the race.

The same cynicism also wonders if Commissioner Kevin Warren and the Big Ten schedule makers will give Michigan a favorable break in rescheduling those games at the expense of Michigan State, Purdue and possibly Illinois. The folks in Champaign, Ill., are still seething about last year's decision to award the Big Ten title on the basis of winning percentage. Michigan (14-3), which didn't make up three games lost to COVID, edged Illinois (16-4) — which played all 20 games scheduled — by .024 percentage points.

KENNY THOMPSON
Columnist

The Michigan postponement gave Purdue six days off following its victory at Penn State last Saturday to prepare for a terrible Nebraska team in Mackey Arena. ...

At least two national college football writers were impressed enough with Purdue's overtime victory against Tennessee in the Music City Bowl to include the Boilermakers in their first Top 25 rankings for 2022.

Pat Forde of Sports Illustrated ranks Purdue 24th, the lowest of six Big Ten teams in his Top 25. Ohio State is second behind Alabama. Michigan (7th), Wisconsin (17th) and Iowa (22nd) also were ranked by Forde.

"We got a glimpse of what the Boilermakers will be without NFL talents David Bell and George Karlaftis in the Music City Bowl—and it was pretty good," Forde wrote. "QB Aidan O'Connell (more than 5,700 career passing yards) is coming back, and Jeff Brohm never runs out of receivers. Losing defensive coordinator Brad Lambert is a blow, but Brohm has gotten more involved on that side of the ball and should maintain the same style of play defensively."

Lambert returned to Wake Forest, where he was an assistant from 2001-10, to be defensive coordinator.

RJ Young of FoxSports.com has Purdue 22nd, the lowest of five Big Ten teams in his rankings. Like Forde, Young has Alabama and Ohio State 1-2. Michigan is ranked fifth, Michigan State 10th and Iowa 18th.

"Jeff Brohm has his quarterback, as former walk-on Aidan O'Connell, who threw for more than 500 yards in the Music City Bowl, will return in 2022," Young wrote. "Now, if Brohm finds a replacement for NFL-bound wideout David Bell, the Boilermakers can start faster in 2022 and finish as strong as they did in 2021." ...

Assuming Forde and Young are correct, Purdue may not be passed over for a higher-ranked Big Ten-affiliated bowl game in 2022. The Boilermakers' 48-45 overtime victory in the Music City Bowl was watched by 5.6 million viewers, according to Bill Shea of The Athletic.

That rating far surpassed regular season college football games on ESPN. Pretty strong for a game that was played on a Thursday afternoon in a less than optimal time slot (3 p.m.). Perhaps the rating was helped by the fact the game went well into the evening.

Ratings like Purdue's and the 1.7 million viewers Ball State and Georgia State drew for the Camellia Bowl on Christmas Day is proof that college football fans could care less that 43 bowl games were originally set for the 2021 postseason.

Of the 37 bowls that were played, the Music City came in at No. 2 on the list of best games compiled by Tom Fornelli of CBSSports.com.

Purdue and Tennessee's back and forth offensive show was surpassed on Fornelli's list only by the Cure Bowl, another shootout that saw Coastal Carolina outdue Northern Illinois 47-41.

"... The game was incredibly entertaining for all neutral observers," Fornelli wrote. "The 1,293 yards of offense the teams combined for was the second-most overall in bowl history, behind only the 2011 Alamo Bowl (1,397 yards)." ...

An interesting investigation into pay for the Big Ten Conference's football coaches by Steve Rosen of HuskerOnline.com discovered that two of the league's head coaches are taking pay cuts for the 2022 season.

One won't surprise you. Following his fourth consecutive losing season at Nebraska, Scott Frost saw his pay slashed by $1 million by new athletic director Trev Alberts.

Don't set up a GoFundMe for Frost, though. The cut leaves Frost making $4 million a year, ranking him 11th among the league's coaches.

Indiana's Tom Allen agreed to a $200,000 pay cut, Rosen reports, following the disastrous 2021 season that saw the Hoosiers finish 2-10 and winless in Big Ten play.

Rosen reports that part of that $200,000 will go toward the cost of Allen firing offensive coordinator Nick Sheridan. Even with the reduction in pay, Allen is still reportedly set to make $4.7 million in 2022.

If Nebraska and Indiana are fortunate, those schools will enjoy the same results as Michigan's Jim Harbaugh in 2022. Harbaugh, the former Indianapolis Colts quarterback, agreed to a $4 million pay cut a year ago that dropped him to just over $4 million. Harbaugh went from the highest-paid head football coach in the conference to ranking among the lowest paid. Perhaps that's what inspired him to lead Michigan to a rare victory over Ohio State and his first Big Ten title in 2021.

Thanks to an incredible 10-year, fully guaranteed

$95 million contract awarded him after Michigan State's outstanding 2021 season, Mel Tucker is now the Big Ten's highest paid coach.

Penn State coach James Franklin turned a 7-6 season into a guaranteed 10-year, $70 million deal. That puts him second in coaching pay ahead of Ohio State's Ryan Day ($6.61 million).

Purdue's Jeff Brohm is making $4.8 million a year, according to Rosen. That puts him sixth in the Big Ten behind Northwestern's Pat Fitzgerald ($5.75 million) and Iowa's Kirk Ferentz ($5 million).

Allen is seventh, just ahead of Minnesota's P.J. Fleck ($4.42 million) and Illinois' Bret Bielema ($4.2 million) and Harbaugh ($4.03 million). Frost is 11th with Wisconsin's Paul Chryst ($3.98 million), Rutgers' Greg Schiano ($3.76 million) and Maryland's Michael Locksley ($2.47 million) bringing up the well-paid rear. ...

Purdue players comprise nearly one-eighth of the Wooden Award Midseason Top 25 Watch List.

Sophomore center Zach Edey joins Jaden Ivey and Trevion Williams, who were on the preseason Top 50 list. The Boilermakers are the lone school with three representatives on the watch list. Duke, Gonzaga and UCLA each have two representatives.

Kenny Thompson is the former sports editor for the Lafayette Journal & Courier and an award-winning journalist. He has covered Purdue athletics for many years.

Indiana American Water accepting applications for grant program

Indiana American Water, a subsidiary of American Water (NYSE: AWK), the largest and most geographically diverse publicly traded U.S. water and wastewater utility company, is now accepting applications for its 2022 Environmental Grant Program.

"Indiana American Water is committed to providing our customers with clean, safe, reliable water service and protecting our environment and our water sources," said Indiana American Water President Matt Prine.

"Everyone plays a role in protecting our nation's water supplies, and this program encourages municipalities, schools, environmental organizations and civic groups to apply for a grant that will benefit their watersheds and the communities we serve across the state."

Indiana American Water's Environmental Grant Program offers funds for innovative, community-based environmental projects that improve, restore or protect the watersheds, surface water and/or groundwater supplies through partnerships. Last year, Indiana American Water funded four watershed projects across the state. In 2022, the company will be awarding several grants for a combined total of approximately $10,000.

To qualify, proposed projects must:

- Address a source water or watershed protection need in the community
- Be completed between May 1, 2022 and November 30, 2022
- Be a new or innovative program for the community, or serve as a significant expansion to an existing program
- Be carried out by a formal or informal partnership between two or more organizations
- Provide evidence of sustainability (continued existence after the grant monies are utilized), and
- Be located within one of Indiana American Water's service areas across the state.

Projects will be judged based on criteria that include clarity of project goals and projected impact, strength of collaboration with other community and/or municipal organizations, and evidence that the project will provide sustainable environmental results after Indiana American Water's funding ends.

Applications must be postmarked by March 31, 2022 and mailed to Indiana American Water, 153 N. Emerson Avenue, Greenwood, Ind. 46143, ATTN: Joe Loughmiller. Award recipients will be notified by April 30, 2022.

Additional Information and application requirements can be obtained online at the Environmental Grant section of the company website at <https://www.amwater.com/inaw/news-community/environmental-grant-program>.

Because the kidneys filter and release uric acid, people with kidney disease are more likely to experience a buildup of urate crystals and, therefore, gout. In fact, 1 out of 10 people with chronic kidney disease have gout, and an even higher percentage of people with gout have kidney disease.

To help debunk some myths around the condition, the American Kidney Fund, in partnership with Horizon

Therapeutics, created the "Goutful" education campaign, which aims to educate and empower patients with gout to help them live easier and prevent further health complications, especially relating to their kidneys. Consider these common myths:

Myth: Gout is rare.

Gout is a relatively common condition. More than 8 million Americans have gout, and it is the most common form of arthritis in men over 40.

Myth: Gout is a man's disease.

Anyone can get gout, but it's more common in men than women. Though men are 10 times more likely to develop gout, rates of gout even out after age 60 since gout tends to develop for women after menopause.

Myth: Only people who are obese get gout.

People of all sizes can develop gout. Though people who are obese are at higher risk, gout is more common in people who have other health problems like diabetes, high blood pressure, high cholesterol or kidney disease. Others more at-risk for gout are males 30-50 years old, Asians, Pacific Islanders, Black people, people with a family history of gout, people with organ transplants and people exposed to lead.

Myth: Gout eventually goes away on its own. Symptoms of gout attacks often go away within a few days, but that doesn't mean gout is gone. Even if you don't feel symptoms, urate crystals can build up beneath the surface, which can cause long-term health problems like joint and kidney damage.

Myth: There are things you can eat to prevent or cure gout.

Certain foods may help decrease the level of uric acid in your body, but diet alone is not a cure for gout. People with gout who follow healthy diets may still need medicine to prevent flare-ups and lower uric acid levels. Alcohol and foods rich in purines, especially red meat and seafood, should be avoided if you are prone to gout.

If you think you might have gout, talk with your doctor or a gout specialist about your symptoms. Visit kidneyfund.org/gout to learn more about gout and kidney disease.

STEPS

sibling with diabetes, or are from certain racial and ethnic backgrounds.

"It is important for people with risk factors for prediabetes to learn if they have the condition," says NIDDK Director Dr. Griffin P. Rodgers. "Even small steps to improve your health and manage prediabetes can make a big difference in reducing your risk for type 2 diabetes."

Fortunately, making a few healthy lifestyle changes can help people with prediabetes improve their health and help avoid or delay developing type 2 diabetes. Here are some actions you can take:

- Ask your doctor for a blood glucose test to find out if you have prediabetes. You should be tested for prediabetes if you have overweight or obesity and have one or more other diabetes risk factors.

- If you need to lose weight, try focusing on losing a small amount of weight. The NIDDK's Diabetes Prevention Program (DPP) found that people who worked on making lifestyle changes to lose weight, including increased physical activity and healthy eating, could drastically lower their type 2 diabetes risk. The results from the DPP helped the CDC build the National Diabetes Prevention Program (www.cdc.gov/diabetes/prevention), a lifestyle program for people at risk for type 2 diabetes available at locations across the country.

- Become more physically active by going on short daily walks. Or try participating in fun hobbies and activities like dancing, playing with your family or friends, or riding a bike.

- Try to spend less time sitting and watching television, playing video games or using social media.

- Swap sugary snacks for healthy fruits, vegetables or nuts. Or try trading white bread and white rice for high-fiber options, like whole wheat bread and brown rice.

- Use a food and drink diary or a smartphone app to keep track of what you eat and drink. It can help you see when you tend to overeat or consume foods and beverages high in fat or calories.

- If you smoke, try to quit. Talk to your doctor or visit <https://smokefree.gov/> for tools and tips on how to become tobacco free.

- Try to get at least 7 hours of sleep each night.

- Take other steps to stay healthy. For instance, getting the COVID-19 vaccine (and booster shot, if eligible) and flu vaccine is highly important, especially for people who may be more likely to get sick from COVID-19, such as older adults and people who already have diabetes, obesity or heart disease, which are chronic conditions.

You don't have to make all these changes at once. Any step you can take toward being healthier is a step in the right direction. And don't be afraid to ask your doctor or loved ones for support. You're not alone in this journey.

of someone or in memory of someone.

The new center, located at the former Williamsburg Nursing Home, will house the majority of county government offices, and will welcome all community members and a multitude of business leaders.

You can have a piece of artwork donated by you or your company to brighten the hallways and hearts of all who enter. Our goal is to feature quality artwork by our local artists. Please send an email to director@athensartsgallery.com or ksteele104@gmail.com to make a reservations by Feb. 16 if you or anyone from your firm would like to attend the art exhibit. Because of COVID, masks are required. If you would prefer for someone locally to select a piece of artwork in honor of you or your company, you may send a financial donation to The Art League of Montgomery County, PO Box 2, Crawfordsville, IN 47933. A piece will be selected, and you will receive a picture of the piece and a donation for your records.

Artists who want to sell their art may bring up to three pieces of artwork to be purchased, but you need to apply to Diana McCormick (director@athensartsgallery.com 765-366-4721) or Kathy Steele (ksteele104@gmail.com 765-362-7547) before Feb. 16. You will be responsible for bringing your artwork to Fusion 54 on Feb. 24 between 3 p.m. and 5 pm, completing an Artwork for County Government Center Form for each piece, and picking up artwork that is not sold from 8 to 8:30 that evening. All artwork that is sold that evening will go through Athens Arts. A small fee will be assessed to handle processing costs.

You may have an original piece of artwork from a local artist that you no longer have on display in your home or office. Please consider donating it to the Montgomery County Government Center. The goal is to line the walls with quality artwork from local artists. You can donate the artwork in memory or in honor of someone. It is a great way to have these original pieces of art on display for others in our community to enjoy. You can deliver the artwork to the County Office Building on the corner of South Boulevard and Grant.

An Artwork for County Government Center Form must be submitted, and each piece must have the name of the artist, the title of the artwork, name of donor and value attached to the back of the artwork. A committee will select the final artwork to be placed in the building.

The new building has been designed to be handicapped accessible and convenient for community members to enjoy as they visit the building to conduct business. The artwork will enhance the ambiance of the facility and highlight the artistic talents of our local artists.

Kathy Steele is the retired superintendent of the Crawfordsville Schools and the President of the Art League of Montgomery County.
