THREE THINGS You Should Know:

1 It's that time of the year when the snow monsters, those awesome but not-so-scary creatures of nature, return to the heights of Mount Zao about 220 miles north of Tokyo, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. The "monsters" are formed when high winds blow frozen droplets of water from a nearby lake across the terrain. The droplets freeze, snow falls and they cling to trees, branches and the surrounding terrain turning the snowscape into a wonderland, attracting thousands of tourists each year from January to mid-March.

2 The Songwriters' Association of Mid-north Indiana (SAMI) is accepting applications for the 2022 Shirley Martin Scholarship for young songwriters, in addition to the Mike Lane Horizon Award. The scholarship and awards are for songwriters aged 14 to 19, who live in any of these Indiana counties: Benton, Carroll, Cass, Clinton, Fountain, Howard, Jasper, Montgomery, Newton, Pulaski, Tippecanoe, Tipton, Warren, or White and are permanent residents of Indiana. For additional information about SAMI or to apply online, go to www.samisong.com. If you have any questions, please contact scholarship coordinator, Justice Fuller, at scholarship@samisong.com or the SAMI Secretary, Cheryl Fletcher at secretary@samisong.com.

3 The Arts Federation is excited to announce Art in the Box, a community-led fundraising effort to support TAF's arts education programs. TAF is working with over 30 Arts Ambassadors who will utilize their personal networks to raise awareness and funds toward a campaign goal of $40,000. The Art in the Box campaign will take place throughout March 2022 during the national celebration of Youth Art Month, showcasing the role of the arts and their importance in the growth and development of our children.

DONOR MILK EXPRESS

FROM THE MILK BANK

Franciscan Health Lafayette Announces Collaboration With The Milk Bank

Franciscan Health Lafayette is proud to announce a collaboration with The Milk Bank to increase access to safe human donor milk for infants in the hospital and after discharge.

The Milk Bank's Donor Milk Express program has the unique ability to provide families with a readily available source of pasteurized donor milk. Franciscan Health now offers two locations for families to purchase up to 40 ounces of pasteurized donor human milk without a prescription. One is at Franciscan Health Center for Women & Children in Lafayette for patients who have delivered and are in the hospital. The other location at Franciscan Community Education is open to the public.

"This opportunity to be a milk distribution site is an excellent extension of our inpatient and outpatient lactation services," said Jacinta Langley, RN, an international board-certified lactation consultant. "We are proud to collaborate with The Milk Bank on this project and help promote successful breastfeeding to our patients and our community."

The Milk Bank – the only program of its kind in Indiana – receives milk from carefully screened, healthy donors and distributes it to babies in neonatal intensive care units or to families with infants who desire to supplement with human milk. Donor milk offers optimal nutrition, improved digestibility and added immunologic protection against infections.

"As a recognized leader and strong advocate for infant and maternal health, The Milk Bank and Franciscan Health are natural community partners," said The Milk Bank's executive director, Freedom Kolb. "By opening a donor milk express site, Franciscan Health is mak-

Why Consent Is Critical: HB 1079

What if Bobby Knight's 1988 words to Connie Chung- "I think that if rape is inevitable, relax and enjoy it"- had been uttered in 2018? Would they have killed his career and his legacy? Those words provide a lens into misconceptions about rape. It is not often violent. It has little to do with sexual pleasure, and everything to do with power or control, and it happens far too often, more often than is reported.

Consider the national statistics. RAINN (Rape, Abuse, Incest National Network) reports shocking averages for the past five years: over 463,000 women above the age of twelve have been victims of rape and sexual assault in the USA annually. Six of every ten women will experience a rape or attempted rape. One of every ten men will have the same experience.

At the heart of the problem is where we set the bar for appropriate and legal sexual activity. When there is minimal protection for victims, then attackers feel free to coerce unwanted sexual intimacy with their targets.

If Indiana passes HB 1079, our state will join nineteen other states and the District of Columbia to ensure that partners consent each and every time they engage in sexual activity. Currently, level one felony rape in Indiana means the attacker used force or the threat of force, or the victim was too mentally disabled or deficient or had been unknowingly given drugs or controlled substances. This definition allows attackers the freedom to coerce their targets, use stealth in sexual encounters, and force intimate partners into non-consenting activity.

Sara, whose last name is withheld for her privacy, explained that her first child was the product of non-consensual

A Mentor For Marley

The Montgomery County Youth Service Bureau, JUMP Program, is a program that matches adult volunteers with the youth of our community. The purpose of this is to provide support to the child as they navigate their childhood. Also, it is meant to give that child someone to talk to and spend time with while experiencing fun activities together. As a way to let people know about the kids on the waiting list, the JUMP program is running weekly profiles on the kids from the waiting list, changing their name and ages slightly to protect their privacy.

On of the girls I am about to profile is age 12 and sometimes teenagers can be scary to adult volunteers. This particular girl is a joy to be around and is a very artistic and energetic person. Her mom describes her as being a very caring and loving person who is an excellent student! She likes to spend time hanging with her friends and she likes to write and create art!

Marley says she likes school and her favorite subjects are history, science and art. She likes drawing, watching tv, writing stories and novels. She likes walking, hiking, baking, cooking, board games, craft projects, sewing, making jewelry and so much more. She would like to be involved in soccer and volleyball but her family recently moved to the area and she missed the deadline to sign up. She also plays the guitar and she enjoys eating at the Golden Corral.

Marley says she would like a mentor to get her out of the house more and so she can have more social interaction. She would like someone who is nice and open minded who likes nature as well as doing creative activities. If you think you would like to be a mentor to someone like Marley, contact Jill Hampton at 362-0694 ext. 103 or email jill@mcsyb.org.

ing a remarkable commitment to combatting infant mortality, supporting families in meeting their breastfeeding goals and providing critical wrap-around services to their patients. Providing access to safe donor milk at the exact moment of need, you will create a strong continuum of care for the most vulnerable infants and their families.”

“We are excited to have the opportunity to be able to provide families access to donor milk when it is most needed,” said Marcia Cherry, director of Center for Women & Children. “Breast milk is the gold standard for babies, but sometimes mothers are unable to provide their own breast milk for their baby. Having a Donor Milk Express in the hospital aligns with our commitment to the safe implementation of maternity care practices supportive of optimal infant nutrition.”

Dutch House by Ann Patchett (FIC Pat).

For those of you intrigued by the concept of book-to-film adaptations, consider the historical fiction Pachinko (FIC Lee), and prepare yourself for the upcoming television series. This novel, written by the Korean American author Min Jin Lee, guides the reader through the endless perils experienced by a Korean family from Yeongdo, a fishing community off the southern tip of the (South) Korean island of Busan. The family relocated to Japan where they encountered racism, stereotyping, and other aspects of daily life for Korean families during the 20th century. Lee uses the resentment and unwelcoming attitudes toward Koreans that lingered due to the tragic events of the World Wars, Korean War, and Vietnam War, as the indirect adversary that fills this family's story. This book is divided up into three sections spanning from 1910 through 1989 and has several short chapters which provide multiple stopping points for busy readers.

If you like something a bit more visually artistic, consider the manga series Lone Wolf & Cub (GN FIC Koi). This series was authored by the iconic Japanese writer Kazuo Koike and beautifully illustrated by Goseki Kojima. Koike is best known for his action-packed manga adventures that were originally promoted to young adult men, and he is a dominant contributor to the growth of interest in Japanese pop culture. Kojima began his career as an advertising illustrator and later refocused his interest on impoverished audiences through manga. He became a major contributor to Japanese-based manga magazines in the 1960s. His Dark Horse Manga tale takes you through the adventures of Ogami and his infant son. He chooses the path of the Ronin after being framed by a rival clan and marked as a traitor. His wife is murdered and he must protect his young son while being a sword-for-hire. This six-volume dramatic tale comes to life with an amazing graphic design layout.

“stealthling” - the practice of a partner removing a condom intentionally to have unprotected sex. She knows many women who have been coerced into encounters to which they did not agree. In fact, many women know of wives forced into sex. Consider one wife who woke up one night for years to find her partner penetrating her or using her body for his pleasure, even when she said no. Women have been groomed by male relatives who then compel them to engage in sexual activities. Women in college have been stalked to their rooms or cornered in a space where they've been assaulted. Because they were under the influence of alcohol or because the attacker paid for dinner, they are coerced into non-consensual sex. Some of them consented to one kind of activity to find themselves forced mid-way into another activity that they feel is degrading. Some have consented one time and find themselves targeted later because the attacker feels that a one-time “yes” applies forever.

Consent should be normative, baked into our culture, from education at home and in sex-ed to the legal system. Passing HB 1079 signals the shift. No longer is a shrug or involuntary physiological response proof that sex is something given freely and intentionally. Requiring consent changes our culture for the better.

For Sara's generation, consent has framed how they parent. “Consent is a major foundation in how I parent. If someone doesn't want to be touched, you don't touch them. It doesn't matter if it's tickling or what. You respect people's bodies,” said Sara. She noted that we operate in a culture that approves of wearing people down. “If someone has a crush and asks you out, you say no, then other people tell them just keep asking. You will eventually give in because you feel sorry for them, not because you want to.”

She and other women experienced this in their monogamous relationships. One of Sara's previous partners threatened to kick her out while she was a stay-at-home mother, so she felt she had to give in.

While this law is very important to women, reporting sexual assault and rape is complicated for victims. Sara regrets that she didn't report her attacker, though she knows that for her and most victims the process of reporting is fraught with shame and more bodily invasion. To report, women must submit to having a rape kit gathered for evidence within twenty-four hours. They will face months and years of reliving the humiliation, eventually on the stand, putting their lives on hold while revisiting the trauma. Nevertheless, they support the law.

RAINN reports that only three hundred ten of every thousand assaults are reported to police, and only fifty of those lead to an arrest. A mere twenty-eight will result in a felony conviction, and twenty-five of the perpetrators will be incarcerated. Indiana's present code 35-42-4-1 doubles the injury, requiring victims to have proof of and recount the use of or threat of force or unwitting use of controlled substances. If the fulcrum is “Did you get verbal consent?” then the law rebalances the power, giving it to both partners, not just one. While it won't prevent rape by perpetrators who see themselves as stronger, richer, more connected, and protected, it will change the culture around sexual coercion, ensuring sex is something partners consent to.

Indiana's legislative season ends in two weeks. Call your representatives and ask them to support HB 1079.
