OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY

The Great Montgomery County Scavenger Hunt

Fresh from those friendly folks who created the History Mystery Tour, the Readers Choice contest, Boomer Bits, Honest Hoosier and more, I'd like to present – for your enjoyment and entertainment – the next big thing in local media – the Great Montgomery County Scavenger Hunt 2022!

TIM TIMMONS
Two Cents

What the heck is it, you say? Glad you asked. Beginning Sunday, the very first day of May, your friends at Montgomery County's favorite daily edition are unveiling a scavenger hunt for any and all to take part in. This one won't involve sneaking around and stealing someone's under britches off their clothes line though. The Great Montgomery County Scavenger Hunt 2022 is all about celebrating the history and grandeur that makes up our wonderful little corner of God's Aye, there's the rub though. Super-talented historian and author Karen Zach came up with the questions! Karen is the editor of our monthly Montgomery Memories magazine and since I was able to have a sneak peek – I've got to tell you, these are some great questions!

Here's how it'll work. You can e-mail answer to yours truly at timmons@thepaper24-7.com (and I will reply so that you know for sure we received your guess). Don't want to e-mail? No problem. Just drop off your answer in writing during open office hours at our beautiful downtown Crawfordsville digs, 127 E. Main St. (right beside Dance by Deborah). Because of the nature of needing exact answers, no phone call or oral entries will be accepted. All entries must be in a written format.

We'll keep track of all entries. At the end of the contest, whoever got the most correct will win. In case of tie, we will do a random drawing with those in the deadlock. We'll award first, second and third places.

So what are the questions exactly? Well, the first one is . . . HOLD ON! You almost got me to blab. Sorry, we all have to wait until Sunday! I can share with you though, more details on the rules and how this works. Clues will appear randomly throughout the month of May. Only written answers will be accepted – DO NOT turn in any object or item. We do not want folks digging up Montgomery County!

You can turn in more than one entry, but each entry must be submitted individually. Be sure to include your name and contact information on each one. It'd be a shame to win and we can't figure out who you are or how to reach you.

As with all our contests, you don't have to buy anything to play. And if you do win, we ask that you allow us to use your name and photo and that you come by our office and pick up your prize!

OK, one last thing. There are a few sponsorship opportunities available. If you need advertising, you'll never find a better buy. You will be in The Paper every day in May for less than $20 a day! Sound great? Of course! But hurry and give Judi a call at 361-0100, ext. 1 because time and space is very limited.

OK, that's it. Pretty easy, huh! Let the Hunt begin!

- Two cents, which is about how much Timmons said his columns are worth, appears periodically on Wednesdays in The Paper. Timmons is the publisher of The Paper and can be contacted at ttimmons@thepaper24-7.com

Senator Braun Joins Bill To Stop President Biden From Transferring Student Loan Debt Onto All Americans

U.S. Sens. Mike Braun, John Thune, Richard Burr, Bill Cassidy and Roger Marshall introduced the Stop Reckless Student Loan Actions Act, legislation that would end President Biden's untargeted suspension of repayments on qualifying federal student loans, following 24 months of non-payment and six executive actions extending the payment pause. The bill would still allow the president to temporarily suspend repayment for low- and middle-income borrowers in future national emergencies and would prohibit the president from cancelling outstanding federal student loan obligations due to a national emergency.

"The majority of Americans do not have college degrees," said Braun. "Why should they be forced to pick up the tab for college degrees in the name of pandemic relief? This transfer of wealth is not a move to 'advance equity,' but rather a taxpayer handout to appease far-left activists."

"As Americans continue to return to the workforce more than two years since the pandemic began, it is time for borrowers to resume repayment of student debt obligations," said Thune. "Taxpayers and working families should not be responsible for continuing to bear the costs associated with this suspension of repayment. This common-sense legislation would protect taxpayers and prevent President Biden from suspending federal student loan repayments in perpetuity. Any future suspension of federal student loan repayments should be left to Congress, not the Biden administration."

"The Biden Administration continues to call for a return to normalcy from the pandemic, while simultaneously extending emergency relief programs like the student loan repayment freeze," said Burr. "They can't have it both ways. Resuming student loan repayments is long overdue, especially in today's strong job market. That's why I'm proud to work with my colleagues on this important bill, which will end the repayment moratorium that has exacerbated the existing moral hazard against borrowers and cost taxpayers an estimated $5 billion per month."

"If the administration wants to follow the science regarding COVID, we must also follow the facts," said Dr. Cassidy. "Unemployment is not at pandemic levels and a student loan repayment pause benefits those who are high income and able to pay their bills. The administration is spending without congressional approval. That should be considered unconstitutional."

"Early in the pandemic when millions were out of work it was understandable to provide temporary relief for borrowers," said Marshall. "Two years removed, this White House and Democrats in Congress continue to pursue the fiscally unsustainable policy of suspending payment, and ultimately canceling, student loan debt, nearly two trillion dollars owed to the federal government. Following the costly response to the pandemic, we must focus on implementing a fiscal strategy that will address the unsustainable path we're on, not compound it."

"The moratorium on federal student loan repayments has cost American taxpayers over $100 billion and will cost $5 billion every month it remains in place," said Grover Norquist, president of Americans for Tax Reform. "Continuing this reckless policy will make surging inflation worse, at a time that we have seen it hit a 40-year high. Less than 17 percent of U.S. adults have federal student loans, and that group is disproportionately wealthy, white, and highly educated. It is unsustainable and unfair for working families to fund this indefinite giveaway to progressive elites. Senators Thune, Burr, Braun, Cassidy, and Marshall should be commended for introducing legislation to end this moratorium and protect taxpayers in the future by narrowing the president's authority to defer loan repayments."

"The student debt repayment pause will add $120 billion to the deficit through August, offer a massive handout to doctors and lawyers, and feed more inflation. It's time to end ongoing COVID relief, or at least fully offset any further extensions," said Maya MacGuineas, president of the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget. "We applaud Senators Thune, Burr, Braun, Cassidy, and Marshall for introducing the Stop Reckless Student Loan Actions Act, which would put an end to the pause and limit a president's ability to unilaterally cancel student debt."

The current suspension of federal student loan repayments disproportionately benefits higher-earning borrowers and has cost American taxpayers billions of dollars.

For example, medical doctors with student debt, on average, have received the equivalent of approximately $50,000 in forgiveness as of May 1, 2022, according to the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget.

According to the Federal Reserve, the net worth of households led by college graduates soared during the pandemic by $23.4 trillion. Meanwhile, the approximate two-thirds of households that are not led by a college degree holder only saw a net worth increase of $3.5 trillion.

Each repayment extension has cost taxpayers $5 billion per month, which is in addition to the more than $100 billion Americans have already spent on this repayment moratorium, according to the Department of Education.

Prior to the pandemic suspension, upper-income borrowers made three-quarters of the student loan payments, according to the Brookings Institution.

According to the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget, individuals who are bachelor's degree holders or higher hold 70 percent of education debt - a population with an unemployment rate of only 2.2 percent.

On April 6, 2022, President Biden announced his fourth extension of the suspension of qualifying federal student loan repayments through August 31, 2022. He also announced that when repayments do resume, all borrowers whose federal student loans are delinquent or in default would be made current. Prior to this extension, the repayment of these federal student loans was scheduled to resume in May 2022. Notably, nothing in this bill would prohibit the U.S. Department of Education from continuing to work with individuals who may be struggling to make timely payments, like helping struggling borrowers enter into income-driven repayment plans.

VFW Post Makes A Popping Donation To Wabash College

The Brian Bowman VFW Post presented Wabash College and its food service partner, Bon Appetit Management Company, a state-of-the-art commercial popcorn machine from Gold Medal Products on Thursday, April 21.

VFW Spokesperson Jason Black said, "We are extremely grateful for the numerous organizations and local businesses that support the veterans and members of our organization and its mission. Wabash College and Bon Appetit have been some of our biggest supporters, while ensuring we have been able to serve amazing food for many of our events."

Under the leadership of Mary Jo Johnston, Chef Jason Anderson and Sous Chef Liesel Townsend, Bon Appetit has catered many events at the Brian Bowman Post, including as Black said, "some on very short notice." The VFW leaders also praised Jason Rush, Travis Felix and Susan Janssen, who have all been involved in Bon Appetit's work at the VFW.

"Every single one of these amazing individuals has shown their support and unwavering dedication, while providing incredible service to us during our efforts to support the veterans, their families, and our community," Black said.

The new popcorn machine will be used at the College's on-campus pub, Wally's, during much of the year, but will pop double-duty in the W. Club Lounge at Little Giant Stadium during football season.

"We're grateful for this amazing donation," Johnston said. "It will make a great addition to Wally's and the W. Club. Now that things are getting back to normal, we hope the community will return to Wally's as a gathering space on our campus."

Rokita Files Suit Against Black Lives Matter GNF

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita filed a lawsuit this week against the Black Lives Matter Global Network Foundation as a part of his ongoing investigation. This legal action seeks compliance with an investigative demand previously served on BLM as part of the same investigation. Specifically, the Office of the Attorney General filed a Petition to Enforce a Civil Investigative Demand, which seeks an order requiring BLM to respond to a Civil Investigative Demand issued to the organization in February.

"Protecting Indiana consumers from this house of cards is critical," Rokita said. "There are concerning patterns of behavior from this organization, and we will do what it takes—including this lawsuit—to get to the bottom of it."

In February, Rokita opened an investigation into BLM's use of funds donated by Hoosiers. In a 2020 report published by BLM, the organization stated it raised over $90 million in 2020, while it distributed approximately $21.7 million to 30 local organizations and affiliated chapters, including an affiliated chapter in South Bend. However, an IRS filing by BLM for the first half of 2020 listed the organization had $0 in revenue, expenses, and assets held by BLM for the time period.

Rokita issued a Civil Investigative Demand to BLM in order to determine if the organization's actions constitute a violation of either the Indiana Deceptive Consumer Sales Act or the Indiana Nonprofit Corporation Act. The Civil Investigative Demand seeks information and documents held by the entity relevant to the ongoing investigation to ensure transparency to donors and guarantee funds donated by Indiana residents are used for their intended purpose and not for the personal benefit of BLM directors.

Under Indiana law, failure to comply with the civil investigative demand could result in sanctions against the entity, including barring the entity from any future fundraising in Indiana, among other possible remedies.

"There are many Indiana stakeholders and donors who have been impacted by these allegations," Rokita said. "This lawsuit will allow for a court to swiftly and efficiently resolve the state's request for information."

Hoosier donors who believe they have been impacted are encouraged to file a consumer complaint at www.indiana-consumer.com.

Purdue Day Of Giving 2022 Raises Record $68.2 Million

The ninth annual Purdue Day of Giving, held Wednesday, April 27, invited donors to power the university's next giant leap, and they responded with a resounding $68.2 million in contributions, outstripping last year's $52.5 million and setting a record for most dollars raised for higher education through a single-day campaign.

The 24-hour online, social media-driven event inspired a record 26,726 gifts and brought Purdue Day of Giving's cumulative total, since 2014, to $309.7 million. (See YouTube thank-you video.)

"When the Purdue family comes together, amazing things happen," said Purdue President Mitch Daniels. "So I'm thrilled - but not surprised - by this record-setting outpouring of generosity. We are grateful to everyone who donated for supporting our persistent pursuit of the next giant leap."

The fundraising event featured participating units across the West Lafayette, Fort Wayne and Purdue Northwest campuses and Purdue Global, the online university tailored to working adults. Local county Extension offices also participated, allowing each county in Indiana to raise funds for Extension programming. New participants for 2022 included the Krach Institute for Tech Diplomacy at Purdue, the Office of Engagement and the Purdue Military Research Institute.

Through 30 hourly challenges and six #IGave challenges, 74 academic and nonacademic programs competed for cash prizes. In addition, 259 student organizations participated in a giving challenge specifically for them, and students and staff took part in an on-campus carnival that featured a 60-foot-tall Ferris wheel, yard games, a photo booth, food trucks and more.

Gifts ranged from $10 to $6 million, supporting a range of programs and academic initiatives. Among the gifts made:

- $6 million from Jim and Jeannie Chaney to the College of Pharmacy.
- $2 million from Beth Brooke, divided among the School of Management, the LGBTQ Center and Intercollegiate Athletics, in honor of Sharon Versyp as the winningest women's basketball coach in Purdue history.

- $1.5 million from an anonymous donor to fund undergraduate scholarships and a professor of practice position in the Davidson School of Chemical Engineering.

- $1 million from Brian and Irene Binash: $500,000 for the Stewart Center renovation and $500,000 to create a matching-gift opportunity for the Emerging Leaders Scholars program.

- A $25,000 pledge commitment from Jackie Bayer in support of The Jacqueline Maynard Bayer Scholarship in Liberal Arts in Honor of James R. and Marilyn Bottomley Dammon Endowment.

- $20,000 from Chris Esquire to endow, in honor of his mother, the S.J. Esquire Memorial Scholarship for a student in Purdue Global's cybersecurity degree program.

- $111 from Alina Alexeenko to the Ukrainian Student Association.
- $10 from Molly Grotjan, a senior in agribusiness, to the College of Agriculture.

"For eight out of the past nine years, Purdue has set the record for dollars raised through a higher education day of giving," said Matt Folk, president and CEO of the Purdue for Life Foundation and vice president of university development and alumni engagement for Purdue University. "We are very grateful to the thousands of students, alumni, friends, faculty and staff of Purdue who support this university so generously. The dollars raised through this event have helped keep frozen tuition in place for 11 years and students in the classroom throughout a pandemic. Through Purdue Day of Giving, the Purdue family is granting opportunity and building for the future, together. As an alumnus, I am so proud of our Purdue family."

The Purdue for Life Foundation helps friends and alumni of Purdue University stay connected, get involved and give back. Created in March 2020, the foundation deepens alumni ties to Purdue, drives and coordinates all alumni-related activities across the Purdue family's postgraduate lives and works with alumni and friends to garner support for the University.

A NEW WAY TO SEAFOOD

Royal Salmon with Romesco Sauce and Aioli

FAMILY FEATURES

Whether you're celebrating a weekend meal with loved ones or simply looking for a way to bring your family to the table at the same time, seafood night can make dinnertime a special treat. Next time you plan to make fish the focus of your menu, it's possible you'll be enjoying the benefits of aquaculture, also known as seafood farming.

Fast becoming a leading source of seafood worldwide, aquaculture is similar to typical agriculture but with fish, shellfish and seaweeds. Farmed seafood can be raised and harvested in either fresh or seawater, where natural conditions are recreated.

Today, half of all seafood Americans eat annually is farm raised and the appetite is only growing. There are many reasons for this, but one is due to overfishing and destructive practices. About 33% of wild fish stocks have reached their biological limit and aquaculture helps meet the increasing demand for seafood.

However, not all seafood you find in the grocery aisles is the same. Despite industry advances, aquaculture still faces challenges with fraud, mislabeling and questionable conditions. That's why it's important to look for responsible seafood products that are labeled by a trusted certification process.

For example, the Aquaculture Stewardship Council is a non-profit certification program that has created and enforced the world's strictest and highest standards for seafood farming since 2010. Today, it is transforming the seafood industry with a new level of certification for farmed seafood. This "new way to seafood" includes:

- Seafood that can be traced all the way from the farm to the store, ensuring the seafood you buy is what it claims to be
- The strictest combination of requirements to protect the environment, workers and communities on the farms where seafood is raised
- Improving farmed seafood quality and safety, so you can enjoy the flavor of recipes like One-Pan Japanese Salmon with Sweet Potato, Salmon and Shrimp Coconut Curry and Royal Salmon with Romesco Sauce and Aioli

To find more information about the certification process, visit NewWaytoSeafood.com.

BBB Warning: Work From Home Reshipping Scam Is Targeting Job Seekers

Reshipping scams have reappeared many times in the past few years as job seekers are looking to work from home. Now, we are once again seeing it resurface as Better Business Bureau (BBB) is receiving an increased number of Scam Tracker reports related to a work from home reshipping scam. Victims across the U.S. from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Florida and Texas report being scammed by Shipowners Team, LLC a company allegedly located in Anderson, Indiana.

The reports indicate the victim's résumé were posted on job boards seeking employment and were approached by a recruiter. Then after a brief interview process, they were hired, and received a W2 form and are asked to fill it out completely, including their social security numbers. Once they submitted the personal information requested, they began receiving packages to ship, but after some time, they never received a paycheck, raising concern.

How the scam works You receive an email offering a job at a shipping service. The company is hiring "agents" to package items and mail them overseas. The position reimburses "agents" for their expenses and pays a monthly stipend. It sounds like easy money, so you accept the job. You hand over personal information to get signed up and on the payroll.

Soon, your first assignment arrives. You are asked to ship something – often electronics, but sometimes other goods – to an address overseas. You send off the items, but your payment never arrives. You've been conned, and you may have just helped scammers move illegally obtained goods.

Clarence, a victim in Pennsylvania reached out to BBB to report his experience with this scam: "[Shipowners Team, LLC] used my name and address as a delivery point for potentially fraudulent items, then had me remail out items to nonexistent addresses."

Another woman located in New Jersey reported to BBB that she filled out the fake W2 form for Shipowners Team, LLC which included her social security number. She questioned her "supervisor" about not receiving a paycheck and they cut off communication.

Watch out for variations on this scam, such as requests that could open you up to ID theft. Some victims reported sending a copy of their driver's license with their "job application," which gave scammers their name, address and photo. A 2020 BBB report found that 65% of fake online job postings are related to becoming a "warehouse distribution coordinator" or a similarly-titled position involving package reshipment.

How to spot a reshipping scam

- Be very cautious of any job that asks you to share personal information or hand over money. Scammers will often use the guise of running a credit check, setting up direct deposit or paying for training.

- If a job looks suspicious, search for it online. If the result comes up in many other cities with the exact same job post, it is likely a scam. • Check out the business' website. Scammers often falsely use the names of real businesses. Check on the business's site or give them a call to confirm the position exists.

For More Information To find out more about reshipping and employment scams, check out BBB.org/employmentscam.

To learn more about scams, go to BBB.org/scamtips. If you've been targeted by this scam, help others avoid the same problem by reporting your experience on the BBB Scam Tracker.

Purdue Engineer Focuses On The Future Of Microelectronics Now

Secure microelectronics and a future workforce capable of providing them are essential to the U.S. economy and security, says a Purdue University engineer.

Peter Bermel, the Elmore Associate Professor of Electrical and Computer Engineering, is focused on both sides of the equation. He directs efforts at Purdue to create a future microelectronics workforce and researches cyberphysical security gaps in the field.

"There is a rapidly developing workforce need in microelectronics and an increasing need for the U.S. to catch up compared with other countries," Bermel said. "It's a priority that we ensure students coming out of universities are motivated to work in specific microelectronics areas to drive the U.S. economy and security forward in the future."

Purdue is a national leader in microelectronics devices and packaging research, spanning the semiconductor ecosystem in software and hardware.

Bermel leads the SCALE (Scalable Asymmetric Lifecycle Engagement Microelectronics Workforce Development) program, which brings faculty across the Purdue College of Engineering together with faculty from 16 universities, the U.S. Department of Defense, NASA, the Department of Energy's National Nuclear Security Administration labs, and the defense industry to create a microelectronics workforce focused on national security needs.

Bermel has developed an advanced secure electronics software and hardware platform servicing a broad range of potential users. He also successfully demonstrated new electronics capable of extended lifetimes under extreme conditions.

Associated Press members with access can find an explainer video on microelectronics from Bermel. Another video is available via the Associated Press of Bermel discussing the future of microelectronics workforce.

More information about Bermel

- Bermel recently spoke during a panel discussion regarding SCALE and Purdue's microelectronics efforts.

- Bermel researches improving the performance of microelectronics, photovoltaic and thermophotovoltaic systems via nanophotonics, the optics subarea of nanotechnology.

6 Ways To Help Businesses In Your Community Thrive

(Family Features) Small business owners faced the challenges of the past couple of years head-on. Nearly all re-evaluated their operations to accommodate new ways of doing business amid changing safety standards and local protocols, and many plan to make these changes permanent.

Over the past year, pandemic-related operational challenges, combined with a surge in physical and verbal attacks, have been uniquely difficult for a group of small business owners.

Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) businesses comprise nearly 10% of small businesses in the United States. Among them, 92% faced difficulties keeping their businesses open and operating amid the pandemic, according to Bank of America's 2021 AAPI Business Owner Spotlight.

"While almost all AAPI entrepreneurs said the pandemic created additional stress around running their businesses, they remain determined and resilient," said Carol Lee Mitchell, head of small business strategy at Bank of America. "Even as they faced immense obstacles, AAPI business owners took steps to move their businesses and communities forward."

Local companies, including AAPI businesses, have proven to be fundamental to strong, healthy economies and inclusive communities. These entrepreneurs remain solution-oriented, quickly adopting new tools and strategies; however, they require support from customers and community members to thrive.

Consider these ways you can support small businesses, including AAPI owners and the community at-large, from the experts at Bank of America:

Choose to Shop Local and Small

Small businesses are ingrained in many local communities. When you choose to purchase from a small business, you're directly supporting neighbors, friends and the people in your community. This support isn't taken for granted by entrepreneurs; more than half of AAPI small business owners noted the importance of community support amid the pandemic. Also consider leaving a generous tip when you receive exceptional service – it can make a big difference for small business staff.

Gift Local

Keep the impact that your support could have on local community businesses in mind when shopping for gifts, whether they're for loved ones near or far. For locals, a gift card to a nearby eatery or business such as a spa, salon or recreation center makes for a welcome gift that keeps your money local. When gifting those who live farther away, you can still benefit small businesses in your community by purchasing a thoughtful gift and packaging locally then shipping it with the help of a business in your area.

Help Spread the Word Small businesses don't usually have the means to invest in big marketing programs, so referrals and word of mouth can make a major difference. However, in today's world, a great deal of consumer research happens online. That means you can be most helpful by taking your stories of great service and quality products to the internet, too. Seek out your favorite small businesses and write reviews on their social media channels. Take it a step further and give them a shoutout (with tags, if possible) on your own social media accounts where your friends and family are more likely to notice.

Help Fill Open Positions

The job market has shifted noticeably over the past year, and local businesses have been struggling to find the talent they need to continue to serve their communities. Small business owners recognize this and are shifting benefits for their employees, allowing for more flexible schedules and additional paid time off.

Since these business owners are looking for employees to help fill some of the uptick in demand, you can help by tapping into your own network and recommending people for different positions you see, whether it be through "Help Wanted" signs or based on the needs you hear from the businesses you patronize.

Be Mindful of Business Challenges

Finding a work-life balance can be difficult for small business owners even in non-pandemic times because they wear so many hats within their businesses, from CEO and salesperson to human resources and everything in between.

Business owners were more conscious of their mental health over the past year, as nearly all AAPI business owners acknowledged additional stress and more than half set aside specific time for self-care and mental wellness.

As a consumer, it's important to be mindful of the fact that business owners are both short-staffed and dealing with supply chain issues. Take an understanding approach and work with local businesses to make sure they know they are supported by their community.

Check In on What's New

Just as you've changed your consumer habits and needs, small businesses have adapted in dozens of ways. That could mean you have access to new services or options you never considered. For example, your favorite yoga studio may offer streaming classes or a favorite breakfast cafe you haven't visited in a while might have an all-new menu. Take time to stop in and learn how your favorite businesses are changing with the times and see how those changes may suit your needs.

Shoulder Pain - Part 2

Welcome back to my two-part series on shoulder pain. First, I want to do a quick review of shoulder anatomy (see the diagram the right shoulder looking from the front). The upper arm bone (humerus) joins to the scapula at the glenoid and is held in place by two structures: (1) a rim of cartilage (glenoid labrum) that forms a shallow cup for the head of the humerus to sit in, and (2) the rotator cuff which is made up of four tendons that wrap around the head of the humerus.

As I stated last week, in order for the shoulder to move in so many directions, it has to be inherently unstable. Since it is so unstable, two of the most common injuries are dislocations and subluxations. Dislocations result when the ball on the head of the humerus slips out of the glenoid "cup" and remains there. This usually happens when a person's upper arm is hit from behind when the arm is raised to the side and the shoulder is cocked and ready to throw.

A subluxation is less severe than a dislocation. The ball does not completely come out of the cup. Subluxations are usually brief events and the ball returns to its normal position spontaneously but can feel unstable afterward. Dislocations

JOHN R. ROBERTS, M.D.
Montgomery Medicine

sometimes reduce spontaneously, but often require manipulation by a doctor to get the head of the humerus back in position.

When a dislocation occurs, it can damage structures in the shoulder. The connective tissue capsule around the joint can be torn. One or more tendons in either the rotator cuff or attached to other muscles may be stretched or torn. The glenoid labrum may be torn as well. When these structures are disrupted, it makes the shoulder even more unstable and more likely to cause additional damage and repeat dislocations.

Treatment for dislocations usually involves rest, bracing, and strengthening the shoulder muscles with physical therapy. Surgery may also be required to repair a torn labrum or tendons.

Another very common cause of shoulder pain is bursitis. Most of our joints are surrounded by fluid-filled sacs that pad the structures around the joint, particularly tendons. These sacs are called bursae (singular bursa). Bursae can become irritated, inflamed, and sometimes infected. Irritation of the bursae in the shoulder can occur following repetitive motion of the shoulder. This is commonly referred to as an "overuse injury." I see this frequently in weekend warriors; not just the folks participating in throwing sports, but also those participating in other repetitive arm motions, like painting their house, trimming trees, or shoveling snow.

Treatment of bursitis can be difficult. Standard treatment consists of rest and anti-inflammatory medication as well as icing. Doctors usually recommend non-steroidal medications (NSAIDs) such as ibuprofen (Advil Motrin) or naproxen (Aleve). If those conservative treatments fail, we may recommend more potent steroids, either taken orally or injected into the bursa.

The final cause of shoulder pain I want to discuss is impingement. This term refers to structures in the shoulder coming into contact with one another resulting in pain. Impingement can be bone-on-bone or bone pinching or rubbing a tendon or bursa. While this occurs more commonly in people who have suffered shoulder injuries, it can also occur in an uninjured shoulder where anatomic structures are naturally close together.

Tendons that have been injured can swell, making them more likely to be pinched or rubbed with shoulder movements. The bones in the shoulder may also develop arthritis with bony overgrowth as a result of injury or natural aging. These overgrowths can lead to impingement as well.

Treatment of impingement varies based on the structures involved. Swollen, inflamed tendons or bursae are treated like bursitis. Occasionally, surgery is necessary to make more room for the structure(s) being rubbed or pinched. This can usually be done through small incisions using an arthroscope.

As always, prevention is the best medicine. If you are involved in sports or work activities that involve a lot of shoulder motion, get involved in a fitness plan to keep your shoulder muscles strong, particularly your rotator cuff. Exercise programs are readily available on the Internet by searching for "shoulder exercises," or "rotator cuff exercises." You can find an excellent resource from the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons here: bit.ly/3xMPBz

Giving Blood Or Platelets Is A Simple Act With A Powerful Impact

The American Red Cross, Pro Football Hall of Famer Jerry Rice and Suburban Propane have joined together to encourage communities to commit to a simple act with a powerful impact – giving blood or platelets for patients in need.

This spring, it's critically important the Red Cross maintains a readily available blood supply for those who rely on transfusions for treatment. Since donated blood has a limited shelf life, supplies must be constantly replenished to ensure a sufficient inventory of blood products. With no substitution for blood and no way to manufacture it, volunteer donors are the only source of blood products for patients with sickle cell disease, car accident victims and parents experiencing difficult childbirths.

As a blood donor himself, Jerry Rice urges individuals to roll up a sleeve and take pride in the lifesaving impact they're making. "Here's your chance to make a difference," said Rice. "You never know who you might be helping. It could be a friend or family member who needs blood – and that's why it's so important."

As a thank-you, Suburban Propane is fueling a lifetime of road-tripping memories with a special opportunity for donors who answer the call to give power to patients. Those who come to give blood, platelets or plasma April 19-May 19, 2022, will be automatically entered to win a travel trailer camper that sleeps eight. Plus, those who come to give will also receive a $10 e-gift card to a merchant of choice, all courtesy of Suburban Propane.*

"We are honored to join our longtime partners at the American Red Cross and football legend Jerry Rice to raise awareness about the need for blood this spring," said Nandini Sankara, spokesperson, Suburban Propane. "This effort is a wonderful addition to our Suburban-Cares initiative, aimed at giving back to our local communities throughout the nation, and we are delighted to sponsor the camper giveaway in hopes of motivating even more people to donate blood and give the gift of life."

A simple act can lead to lifesaving care. To schedule an appointment to donate blood, platelets or plasma, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

Health insights for donors. The Red Cross is testing all donations for COVID-19 antibodies for a limited time. Results may indicate if the donor's immune system has produced antibodies to this coronavirus after vaccination or past exposure, regardless of whether they developed symptoms.

Plasma from routine blood, platelet and plasma donations that have high levels of COVID-19 antibodies may be used as convalescent plasma to meet potential future needs of COVID-19 patients with a weakened immune system.

The Red Cross is not testing donors to diagnose infection, referred to as a diagnostic test. To protect the health and safety of Red Cross staff and donors, it is important that individuals who have been asked to quarantine or believe they may be ill with COVID-19 postpone donation until they are symptom-free for 10 days and feeling well and healthy.

At a time when health information has never been more important, the Red Cross is screening all blood, platelet and plasma donations from self-identified African American donors for the sickle cell trait. This additional screening will provide Black donors with an additional health insight and help the Red Cross identify compatible blood types more quickly to help patients with sickle cell disease. Blood transfusion is an essential treatment for those with sickle cell disease, and blood donations from individuals of the same race, ethnicity and blood type have a unique ability to help patients fighting sickle cell disease.

Donors can expect to receive antibody testing results and sickle cell trait screening results, if applicable, within one to two weeks through the Red Cross Blood Donor App and the online donor portal at RedCrossBlood.org.

Blood drive safety. The Red Cross follows a high standard of safety and infection control. The Red cross will continue to socially distance wherever possible at blood drives, donation centers and facilities. While donors are no longer required to wear a face mask, individuals may choose to continue to wear a mask for any reason. The Red Cross will also adhere to more stringent face mask requirements per state and/or local guidance, or at the request of blood drive sponsors. Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving at a drive.

How to donate blood. Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org, call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enable the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

About the American Red Cross. The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides comfort to victims of disasters; supplies about 40% of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; distributes international humanitarian aid; and supports veterans, military members and their families. The Red Cross is a nonprofit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to deliver its mission. ## And So The Dunbar Family Saga Begins ...

Well, after much contemplation, decided to do another family Saga. Had more contemplation on what family. I know you've had so many folks from the county seat to read about, as well as from Waveland throwing in many in the Ladoga area, so decided I wanted to do a family I had played with many times but have not really written about. Thus, meet the Lewis M. Dunbar family from Sugar Creek Township and vicinity.

Lewis was born in Hummelstown, (Dauphin County), Pennsylvania. I've actually been there a couple of times (hub's family from the area), but didn't realize a MoCo connection until typing this. A farming community at that time, Lewis was born November 12th in 1803 to Robert and Magdalena (Bretz) Dunbar. Although the Dunbars married into several German families and Dauphin County is almost pure German, family trees on Ancestry and thereabouts have the Dunbars as Scottish and sounds/looks like English, but am wondering if it may have been Americanized and was originally Dunboar or Donbaur, then again, that isn't my purpose here. It is to introduce you or if you're familiar with this family, perhaps tell ya' a few things you didn't know, in regards to the Dunbars, momma and poppa being Lewis M. and Mary "Polly" Powers Dunbar.

These two were married in Chillicothe, Ohio (the Dunbars had gone there when Lewis was about nine) on March 21 in 1822 by Rev. Reuben Rowe. The next year in June, their first child of 16 (William) was born. Polly would pass away with her last (more to come for Lewis) with a harsh three days having a child or my thought - twins as there were a couple of sets in the next generation (June 12-15, 1850 dying on the 15th - mortality schedule) having been born 30 Dec 1804 in Grant County, Virginia, her parents Daniel and Elizabeth Bryant Powers. The child(ren) I assume passed with her (not in the mortality listing but logical and not in further census records) and two of their children's obituaries mention being in a family of 16 and 15 are accounted for, so perhaps just one child - at any rate, one big family.

KAREN ZACH
Around The County

Back to the happy life, though. They lived in Chillicothe, then in 1830 brought their five children with them (William, Silas, Eliza, John Adam and Susan) to Sugar Creek Township in the fall of that year. At first they lived under a large hickory tree until Lewis got a hickory log cabin built, which I assume was before or about the time of his land purchase on 3 January 1831 (Section 12 in Sugar Creek Township). The family seemed plagued by fire as their first one was that fall when Lewis happened to be away. Luckily, he had brought a large barrel of water up and Polly, getting the children safe, then went to work on the fire. She saved it all. This was due to the Indians in the area firing up the prairie to flush out game. It did burn off the bark on the logs but the home and children were basically saved by her quick actions.

Not long after the fire, Polly gave birth to another son, this one, Robert named for her father. Other children would be Catherine, Elias, Lewis M., Simon, Marion B., Daniel, Elizabeth, Mary and Taylor. He remarried Sarah Sommers (Summers) and they would have Joseph, George, Jesse, Henry and Dora Estella and two who likely died at birth, tallying 23 children. One big family for Lewis M. Dunbar, for sure.

On the farm, they raised horses, hogs, cattle and sheep, along with some wheat (interview with his son 30 Nov 1915 Cville Review), "which was tromped out with horses on the barn floor. Also raised buckwheat, but the corn was never very good." Lewis' sons would take the buckwheat, wheat and corn on horseback to the mill, as "there were not many wagons and fewer roads." Lewis Jr. was the one remembering that his mother cooked over the fire place and made all the clothes for the 16 in the family. The editor of the paper was quite impressed saying that Lewis M. Jr., "had no more than 300 days of schooling, yet he wrote a good hand, using proper grammar and could remember from 60 years ago!" The Dunbars were very big on religion and education, as well as keeping up on the news. Lewis even served as one of the agents for the Weekly Journal in the early 1870s. Love it!

In the 1840s, he purchased a brick-making apparatus and made the bricks to build a home. It was completed by 1847. In 1864, he, and 2nd wife, Sarah Ann Summers moved their family to a farm just west of Bowers' Cemetery where they remained for the rest of their lives. Bad luck again occurred four years later when "pickpockets struck out in their community," tallying $10 from John Peterson, $15 from Lewis and supper at Samuel Fisher's while all these families slept. Then, fire struck again, creating a total loss in August of 1874 - "the residence, wood house, smoke house and milk rooms were all destroyed by a fire originated by a defective flue." The total loss was $3,000 and he had just insured the home a few days before for $1,800.

Never one to give up on life, he and the boys and possibly neighbors rebuilt the residence at Bowers Station that was ready by Christmas 1874. He purchased quite a bit of farm land, totalling about 900 acres, and was active in the German Baptist Society (Dunkards) which he helped organize in 1856.

Note: much of the information on Lewis and his family (including this photo) will be from a wonderful work, Lewis Dunbar and His Descendants by Audrey Anita Allen of Preston, Washington, the Dunbar Facebook page monitored by Mary Jo Dunbar Barton and of course the ever present old newspapers, FindAGrave and Ancestry. Lewis was described as a large man (380 pounds, about 100 less at his death on April 16th in 1876, age 72). He was also noted as being quiet, unoffensive, quite respected and a good man. So, keep an eye out for more on Lewis' fine children upcoming in the Around The County articles for the next several weeks! Enjoy!

Butch Married Into A 'Horse And Pig Crazy' Family

When I was growing up, we had several types of animals on the farm...pigs, beef cows, milk cows, sheep, chickens, ducks, rabbits...and of course the stray barn cats and our lovable pet dog, "Trooper." Since I never showed animals in 4-H, I had no real affection for the farm livestock, as my main chores involved feeding and cleaning out the barns, tedious duties which took time away from my favorite activities...basketball and baseball. However, I watched many TV westerns in the 1950s and longed for the day when Dad would surprise me with my very own horse or pony...a "fun" animal. But when crop prices and farm profits are low, and your father is working extra jobs just to make ends meet for a family of five kids, then dreams just become wishful thinking. My cousin, John Wells, who lived across the road from our house, had a black and white pony named "Star," so at least we were able to ride him once in a while when my aunt and uncle had a family cookout.

In the summer of 1959, at the age of ten, I accompanied Dad in the old Dodge pickup to several farms to help him measure farm ground for the USDA "set-aside" program. While he was speaking with a farmer in the northern part of Sugar Creek township, I spotted a cute little girl, wearing a cowboy hat and riding a white pony. To make a long story short, that little girl started school at Darlington that fall...and six years later she married her high school hunk...me!

BUTCH DALE

My wife was an only child, and her parents were horse lovers, and they also raised purebred swine. She showed pigs in 4-H and all around...even at the International Livestock Show in Chicago, and she also always had a pony, donkey, or horse as a pet. She loved her pet pigs and her horses...and she has always loved to be around those animals. After I finished Purdue and we purchased our first house, located on five acres in the country, we bought a beautiful Appaloosa horse, named "Appy," for her to ride. She fed and groomed that horse, while I became the master of horse manure removal! I could pet Appy, but it always seemed to shy away from me, so I never tried to ride her.

Then one afternoon, while I was mowing the yard, I noticed that Appy was grazing next to the yard fence. That gave me an idea. I turned off the mower and slowly climbed over the fence where Appy was standing perfectly still. As I eased onto to the horse's back, I knew that I would finally be able to ride her...WRONG! I wasn't on that sweet, gentle horse one second...when she bucked me off! We owned Appy until she passed away at a ripe old age...and with four kids coming along...and then all four going to college...never could afford to buy another one.

However, all four of our children did raise pigs, which they showed at the 4-H fair here in the county and at the Indiana State Fair, and my wife enjoyed helping them with that fun activity. I have surmised that this love for pigs and horses must be a genetic trait, as my daughter's two children raise pigs and show them in 4-H...and another granddaughter loves horses...so much so that my son bought her a quarterhorse last year. The two grandkids who show pigs have been very successful at the fairs, and my granddaughter who has the horse is taking riding lessons and wants to be a barrel racer someday.

I think it's great that kids love animals and take care of them. It teaches them responsibility and instills a work ethic that will last a lifetime. We love to watch Ava ride her horse...and Drew and Macee show their pigs. And believe it or not, they talk to those animals...and I really think the horse and the pigs understand what they are saying! My wife is the same way...she just has the ability to make a "connection" with her favorite farm animals. Farm girls are like that. Maybe it's that extra empathy that women seem to possess. Our youngest granddaughter, who is three years old, already raises chickens and rabbits...and she talks to them, too! As for me, I'm still the expert on manure removal.

We live in the house where my wife grew up, and she told me that if she passes away before I do, then I am supposed to dig a hole out near the horse and pig barn...and bury her there. Folks, she is serious!

I Suspect Fowl Play

Let's get the bad news out of the way, right off the top: Ed is dead.

I am devastated. Ed came into my life unexpectedly, last Thanksgiving. The fact that he showed up at my house when he did was astonishing, so much so that I devoted my entire column to his unconventional and dramatic entrance. (With the Grain, November 30, 2021)

Even more remarkably, once he was here, Ed showed little inclination to moving on. He seemed to really like our community, even though nothing in our surrounds would make you think that he would be drawn to us.

Ed seemed happy here. Through the weeks, Ed and I carved out a strong interpersonal relationship. We greeted each other each morning. Most days, I'd invite Ed to join me for lunch on my back deck. Without fail, day in and day out, Ed stopped outside the window of my home office, just to poke his head against the pane to say

JOHN MARLOWE
With the Grain

hello. Well, he didn't really "say" hello, I guess. He communicated nonverbally. He used a series of body displays and gestures, yet it wasn't difficult to figure out what Ed wanted to convey. Trust me, I wanted to talk with Ed. I wanted desperately to know what was on his mind. However, as much as I searched, I could never find anyone offering a "Peacock as a second language" course.

That's right, Ed is a peacock. Was a peacock.

On Easter morning, neighbors found in their back yard, evidence of a Herculean struggle for life or death. Green and gold feathers, adorned with the traditional eye-spot pattern lay strewn around the battlefield, and when they discovered a pile of beautiful indigo feathers -- the feathers that festooned Ed's elongated neck -- it was obvious that Ed was no more.

Rest in pieces, my friend. Further exploration indicates that Ed was outfitted by, well... by a fox.

We do have a female fox in the neighborhood, and she's raising a skulk of kits. True, she's the biggest fox I've ever seen easily the size of my neighbor's Dalmatian. Yet, I never thought she'd go after Ed.

Ed was too big, I thought. Too flamboyant. His crooked head towered over the hood of my car, and I'm not sure I could get my arms around Ed's corpulent body, even if I had tried. And I didn't try. Ed was certainly not a cuddler. He stayed aloof, brandishing human hand-sized talons to ward off those of us who ventured too close.

Yet, Ed never bothered anyone. Well, we do have one neighbor who hoped somehow Ed would go away. I grant you, having Ed around your yard could be quite messy. It was a lot like owning a feathered St. Bernard.

Nevertheless, to most, Ed evoked joy not irritation.

There is something spiritual about having a peacock. He arrived on Thanksgiving, during a year when I wasn't particularly grateful. He departed on Easter, when I needed reminding of the meaning of new life.

Early Christians, in fact, considered the peacock to be the symbol of the resurrection. Many Asians consider it the symbol of rejuvenation.

I called the peacock Ed, because the only other person that I knew with a peacock was a farmer named Ed. Ironically, Ed -- the farmer -- passed away one week before Ed -- the bird -- showed up in my driveway. Makes one think, doesn't it?

I really loved telling people that I had a peacock, not that he was ever mine. He belonged to all of us, maybe to even something greater than us.

The children in the neighborhood called the peacock "Blue," because of his bright blue feathers. His death has been particularly hard on the kids. For most, this is their first experience. Together, we stood around Ed's grave in an impromptu funeral ceremony.

The children wanted it. I'm glad they did. It helps us all understand life.

The kids placed spring blossoms of violets and cherry flowers on the soft dirt, and they asked me to say a few words. I've done a few eulogies through the years, but never for a peacock. I decided to end the service with a familiar hymn.

All things bright and beautiful All creatures great and small

All things wise and wonderful 'Twas God that made them all

Not Even Remotely Funny

You're probably familiar with the newest TV remote control technology. No longer do you have to "enter" the channel on the device: in many cases you can simply say what channel you want into the remote and voila! There it is on the screen. Of course, most times you will be asked to repeat yourself, because the high-tech gadget failed to understand you. As Mary Ellen noted, quite aptly, "I might as well ask you to switch channels, Dick. You can't hear me half the time, either."

And why are functions only on the remote, and not on the giant TV itself? Why jam all those buttons onto something the size of a stapler? They could have put them on the set, as well. Absent-minded as I am, I have never lost a TV screen...and then found it in my sock drawer.

I try to look on the bright side. If I didn't have to tear my couch apart at least twice a month and dive into the dark side beneath those cushions to look for the remote, I wouldn't have $235.89 worth of change in a cookie jar and I'd still be wondering what happened to my wedding ring, my extra set of keys and 17 ball-point pens.

No one can argue that a remote control is third only to movable type and the Squatty Potty for the world's greatest inventions. I became so paranoid about losing the remote that I wrapped a long piece of dental floss around it and then tied the line to the leg of the coffee table. I never lost the remote...and I remembered to floss 45 percent more often. And only once did I get caught on the floss and sprain my ankle.

One company may have solved the disappearing remote problem. They will soon introduce a new flat-screen television that obeys commands based on hand and body movements. This technology is called gesture recognition. (It's a concept we are all familiar with when we cut someone off on 465.) "The TV has a camera and will recognize you if you are in front of it," says the manufacturer. This intrigued me, because I've been in front of a camera for 40 years, and I'm still having a heck of a time being recognized.

The premise is that you can wiggle your fingers, point up or down or make various other motions and the TV will respond. It's like sign language—no remote needed. Let's say my wife and I are about to retire for the evening. As she watches me flex my fingers and rotate my palms, she wonders if I'm about to give her a romantic massage. "Ooh, Dick, are you trying to turn me on?"

"No, I'm trying to turn on Stephen Colbert. What's the sign for CBS?"

Advances will not stop with the TV remote. One day all this technology will also be introduced in the kitchen. With the proper hand signals, we'll be able to operate the convection oven, the stove, the microwave, and the air fryer.

Truth is, I don't do any food preparation, so these hands-free innovations will have little effect on me. When it comes to cooking, I have no interest in lifting a finger.

Ask Rusty - I'm Working; Why Hasn't My Social Security Benefit Increased?

Dear Rusty: I will be 72 in July. I started taking my Social Security at age 64 after a job loss and other items that came up. So, my plan to wait past 68 evaporated, but I have continued to work since that time at a considerably smaller amount. I have contacted Social Security about increasing my "entitlement" since my earnings of late are considerably more than my first few years of earnings. Using the formula of the highest earnings over the last 35 years divided by 420 my monthly increase would be about $500. I've contacted Social Security several times about this. Their standard reply is that they evaluate all accounts every October and if any adjustments are to be made, they will be made in March of the following year. Nothing has changed with regards to this as I've continued to work. Does the fact that I claimed my benefit at age 64 take me out of the equation? Signed: Working Still at 72

Social Security Advisor

Dear Working: The Social Security representatives you spoke with told you correctly – they examine your recent earnings every year and will automatically adjust your benefit if it is appropriate to do so. But the dollar values they look at to see if you should get a benefit increase may not be what you think.

When you claimed your SS benefits at age 64, they computed your benefit using the highest-earning 35 years you had at that time, but they "indexed" those earnings (adjusted them for inflation) for the year you turned 60 and earlier. That means that to arrive at your age 64 benefit, they increased your historical earnings by an inflation percentage for each year, to pay your benefit in current dollars. For example, if your 1985 earnings were $25,000, that would be about $62,000 in today's dollars and that is the amount they used to compute your benefit. But that is also the amount you would need to exceed today to have your current earnings increase your monthly benefit amount.

So, unless your most recent earnings exceed the inflated dollar amounts used to compute your benefit at age 64, your monthly benefit won't change. Keep in mind too that Social Security uses only the 35 years over your lifetime in which you earned the most, so years with lower earnings (for example, when you first started working) probably aren't included in the computation.

In any case, rest assured that claiming at age 64 didn't disqualify you from getting a bigger benefit if you're entitled to one because your current earnings exceed the inflation-adjusted amounts originally used. Everyone who works and earns, even if they are already collecting Social Security, will have their earnings record reviewed every year to see if their current earnings entitle them to a bigger benefit. If so, it is automatically given.

Butch Says, "Oh, No ... It's Heart Attack Time"

Now, now, now...before you jump to conclusions... No, it wasn't me, and your dedicated publisher and writer, Tim Timmons, did not have another one.... it was my little brother, Gary. And when I say "little," I am referring to the fact that he just turned 70 years old last month, while I hit 73 last October. On the morning of April 13th, Gary's wife heard a loud noise in their bedroom, and discovered Gary unconscious and laying on the floor. She called 911, and the Crawfordsville paramedics arrived in short order, treating him and then transporting him to the local hospital. The doctors at Franciscan determined that he had suffered a heart attack and he was then transported to St. Elizabeth in Lafayette. I spoke with him that afternoon on the phone. He sounded great, and thought that they would likely have to put in a stent, but they were going to run a few more tests that afternoon.

The next morning my sister called to inform me that Gary had four blocked arteries and needed to undergo open heart surgery...the next day! It was just hard for me to fathom that. Gary had told me that he had no symptoms other than mild indigestion at times. He exercised regularly, and often played golf three or four times a week with his high school buddy, Rich Douglas. He had gained a few pounds since he retired a couple of years ago, but certainly was not overweight. Well, we all prayed that the surgery would go well, and there would be no complications...and our prayers were answered. The surgery was successful, and my little brother came home three days later... and is recovering nicely... Thank the Lord!

All of this got me to thinking about our Dad. In the fall of 1990, my father called me to ask if I would play in a golf tournament with him and my two brothers, Gary and Mike. At that time, I was working 45 hours a week as a deputy sheriff and also another 38 hours a week at my second job as the librarian at Darlington. I told Dad that I was barely able to get enough sleep, and might have to pass on the golf outing. But I could tell from his voice that he really wanted me to be there. He was very insistent, which was highly unusual for him. I finally agreed to join them, and we had a great time...even winning the tournament, albeit I had no sleep that day.

The next spring, Dad had a massive heart attack. The doctors told our family that he had evidently suffered a heart attack previously, but had not told anyone. That sounded like Dad, as he never went to a doctor in his life, never took a prescription, and never even took an aspirin. That is when I realized why he wanted us to play golf together that previous fall. He knew it might be the last time. Even though he had severe and irreversible heart damage, Dad lived another month. My sister, Sarah, and I were at his bedside at Methodist Hospital when he passed away. Dad was only 66 years old. Before he passed away, Dad's eyes were closed, and he was only taking one breath per minute. And then he opened his eyes, looked straight up, and smiled... before exhaling one last time. I still believe Dad saw an angel coming to take him to Heaven. My mother had a stroke at age 74 and was confined to bed in a nursing home. She remained in great spirits though for the next four years, and I was shocked when Gary called and gave me the news. I wished I could have been there when she passed. They were both great parents, and we still miss them very much.

When a parent passes away, or a younger sibling has health problems, you start thinking more about your own health. I had my annual check-up in March. My blood pressure was 118/72...heartbeat 60 times a minute...weight 170 (same as in high school)...lungs clear...no sign of anything wrong. I told him I do my push-ups every morning, get plenty of exercise working at our farm, and eat healthy. He told me all of that was good news. The bad news is that I am still 73 years old!

Well, we know Gary is going to get well soon and be back on the golf course in no time. He quit smoking several years ago, so that's good. I told him that...if he wanted me to...I would write up the following prescription: "To fully recover, it will be necessary for you to make love to your wife at least 3-4 four times a week for the next ten years." I figure that will get his heart pumping strong again, and after all, if you have a heart attack, you might as well have a "fun" recovery. Like the old saying goes, "There may be snow on the roof, but there's still a fire in the furnace!"

Living Life Lighter

Carrying baggage is exhausting. When traveling we often pack more than we need. When making a trip it's always easier to travel light.

Life is a trip. The longer we live the more we seem to pack and try to carry. Our mind has so many shelves, drawers and spaces for luggage of all shapes and sizes.

We have this giant closet inside our brains that we fill up throughout life.

Your mental closet is filled with memories that are good and not so good. You may have spaces filled with grief, sadness, hurts, rejection, loss, failure, disappointments, defeats and more. You also hopefully have stored up some happy times, victories, successes, celebrations, achievements, love, relationships and peace.

GLENN MOLLETTE
Guest Column

Hopefully your mind is filled with more positive happy events.

I heard the story about a young man who loved his cat. The cat died and his mother gave him permission to bury his cat in the backyard. The mother became appalled when she discovered her son was digging up the cat every few days to see how the cat was doing. Too often we live our lives this way. We dig up old stuff that needs to remain buried forever.

Too often the mind carries what cannot be physically buried, good or bad. We are frequently impacted by what we keep stored. One cold morning, a little boy put his backside up against an old coal stove. The hot stove burned his bottom and he knew never to do that again. What we have stored up in our minds can often serve us well. Wisdom is gained the hard way. The school of hard knocks is educational and expensive. We pay dearly throughout life to learn the hard way. Thus, what we have stored up can be very valuable to us as we face additional life challenges and opportunities.

Your past decisions, work, interests, achievements, failures and mistakes all play a part in where you are today. This could be very good. Or, it could be very bad. If you learned from your mistakes and moved forward then you may be further ahead than you ever imagined. If you didn't learn from your mistakes and you continue to make them then frustration and sadness is haunting you.

Today is a new day. You can't change the past. You do not know the future. Live your best life now. Dispose of as much baggage as you can. Do away with old resentments and regrets. Forgive people. Forgive yourself. Don't live in the cemetery but live with hope of seeing your loved one in a better place.

Paul, the author of Philippians said it this way, "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Mountain Sounds From Ralph Stanley II

The sounds of banjos and fiddles have kept my heart singing since childhood. From jam sessions to stage shows entertaining thousands, America's music has charmed people around the world. One of the greatest stalwarts to forge the genre was the late Dr. Ralph Stanley, who I had the great honor to perform and record with. His son Ralph Stanley II continues the musical legacy with the Clinch Mountain Boys. He will welcome fans from around the world to the 50th Anniversary Dr. Ralph Stanley Hills of Home Festival in McClure, Va. May 25 through 28, 2022. I have been blessed to entertain there and it is a wonderful setting to hear bluegrass played the way it should be.

"The festival is always exciting because it's held at the home place of the Stanley Brothers," Ralph II said. "Being the 50th and having Ricky Skaggs returning makes it very special. He is the last of the original Clinch Mountain Boys that was there for the first festival appearing with dad, Jack Cook, Roy Lee Centers, Keith Whitley, and Curly Ray Cline.

"We want everybody to come out and enjoy the festival and help us keep it growing," he said.

I spoke with the Grammy winning artist as he was doing performances in Florida. He is sharing songs from his latest albums "Lord Help Me Find the Way" and their self-titled album. Ralph has enjoyed three #1 songs in his career including "Beautiful Hills of Home"

"This is our 75th Anniversary Tour of the Clinch Mountain Boys and we are keeping it going on down the line," he said. "We keep it true to where it began with the Stanley Brothers but I have more of a country feel to my vocals."

He shared his vocal sound may reflect what the band might have had with his late uncle Carter at the helm without his dad.

In addition to Ralph, the Clinch Mountain Boys, currently includes banjoist Landon Fitzpatrick, fiddler Stanley Efaw, Caleb Shifflett on guitar and Randall Hibbits on bass. To check out his latest music or other upcoming events, visit Ralph2.com.

"I think Bluegrass will always be around. I don't think it will ever die," he said. "As folks get older they go back to their roots and often that's the music that they want hear."

The week at McClure, Virginia features a who's who in bluegrass with performances by Stanley, Ricky Skaggs & Kentucky Thunder, Larry Sparks & The Lonesome Ramblers, Little Roy & Lizzy Show, David Davis and the Warrior River Boys, the Larry Stephenson Band, Joe Mullins & the Radio Ramblers and many more. Weekly passes are $130. Most day tickets are $35 with Saturday being $40. Kids 12 and under are free. College students with college I.D. receive a 20% discount.

The Power Of The Individual

By Bryan Golden

"You can't fight city hall." "What can one person do?" "Things never change." "That's just the way it is." "There's nothing you can do." "You're just beating your head against the wall." "You have to learn how to accept reality."

You've probably heard all of the above phrases. The only purpose they serve is to obstruct individual initiative and achievement. This results in the propagation of the erroneous belief that individuals are at the mercy of groups, governments, and committees.

History has repeatedly shown that the power of the individual is the basis for all discoveries and advances. There has never been a statue erected to any group. Just think of all the notable people you are aware of.

After many years of conditioning, we conclude that we are virtually powerless as individuals. It's ironic that we develop this erroneous belief in the face of thousands of years of evidence to the contrary. Holding on to this outlook impedes your success and can even limit your happiness.

Feeling powerless as an individual leads to the formation of a victim mentality. This attitude causes you to blame others for your circumstances while looking outside yourself for solutions. In so doing, you put the direction of your life in someone else's hands.

Within you exists the power to change, innovate, and create. Don't be deterred by truisms. I'll debunk each one listed in the first paragraph. As you exercise your power on a consistent basis, you will make things happen rather than waiting for them to happen.

"You can't fight city hall." The government is nothing more than a collection of individuals who are supposed to serve the people. You can fight city hall if you have a strong enough motivation and drive. The history of our country is filled with individuals who took a stand and made a difference.

"What can one person do?" Every accomplishment starts with one person who has a dream. Some people are leaders who attract others to their cause. Some people work alone. Either way, everything that has ever been attained is traceable to an individual.

"Things never change." Circumstances don't change on their own. If you want things to change, you have to change them. It doesn't matter how old you are or how long your situation has persisted. You can begin to take action today to change it.

"That's just the way it is." If this were true, the human race would never have advanced from living in caves. This phrase is used to justify inaction. Things are the way they are until one person decides to alter them.

"There's nothing you can do." If you are willing to put in the effort, there is always something you can do. When you do nothing, nothing happens. It is a proven fact that it's the squeaky wheel that gets the grease.

"You're just beating your head against the wall." A definition of insanity is doing the same thing and expecting a different result. If what you are doing isn't working, alter your strategy. Often, only a small adjustment is needed for a successful outcome.

"You have to learn how to accept reality." Whose reality does this statement refer to? Your reality is defined by your beliefs. If you think something is possible, you are right. Conversely, if you feel something is impossible, you are also right. Your mind won't allow you to act in a manner contrary to your ideology.

As an individual, you have the power to accomplish anything you set your mind to. Looking anywhere else for satisfaction in your life will lead to disappointment. Whatever you can conceive and believe you, as an individual, can achieve.

What Is Cancel And Interruption For Any Reason Coverage?

By Angela Borden, Seven Corners Product Marketing Strategist

Throughout the last few years, the significant changes in travel have continued to make people wary of booking a trip. The ongoing effects and uncertainties of the COVID-19 pandemic and new variants remain, as well as the war abroad and fears it could spread. As the world continues to remain in a state of flux when it comes to travel, how can travelers protect not only themselves, but also their wallets?

The travel insurance industry offers protection plans to allow cancellation or interruption of travel for any reason not otherwise covered: Cancel for Any Reason (CFAR), and a newer benefit, Interruption for Any Reason (IFAR). Seven Corners, a global travel insurance company, offers both coverage options, and not all leading travel insurance providers do. Our team has experienced an increase in calls asking about CFAR and IFAR as well as an increase in the popularity of these options. In fact, we saw a 180% increase in the sale of plans with CFAR in 2020 compared to 2019, and consumers are still showing interest in CFAR due to the continued uncertain nature of travel.

Due to the questions about these coverage options and the benefits they provide travelers during unforeseen circumstances, our team put together information on what CFAR and IFAR are, what they cover, and how adding these options might be useful when preparing for your next trip.

What is CFAR?
CFAR is an optional benefit offered on certain trip protection plans that allows travelers to cancel trips for any reason not otherwise covered. It allows customers to be reimbursed for up to 75% of their nonrefundable trip costs as long as the CFAR benefit is purchased within 20 days of the initial trip deposit. To have CFAR apply, travelers must also insure subsequent travel arrangements added to their trip within 15 days of the date they were purchased. For example, if a traveler decides to add an excursion to their itinerary on a cruise, the excursion must also be insured within 15 days of the date the traveler pays for the excursion. It is important to note that CFAR does not cover travel arrangements which are not provided by the travel supplier or the failure of the travel supplier to provide the travel arrangements due to cessation of operations for any reason.

Why was CFAR added to coverage plans?

CFAR was designed for travelers to cancel their trip for any reason they wish, not because a travel supplier causes them to cancel. Here are a few examples of situations where CFAR might help:

Your pet becomes ill, and you want to cancel the trip and stay home.

You have a falling out with a friend and no longer want to vacation with them. You have an unexpected financial crisis and no longer want to travel.

You are fearful of contracting a new variant of COVID-19 at your destination.

Additionally, if a traveler wants the option to cancel their trip because of the current war in Ukraine, they could utilize CFAR, the only option available to obtain coverage for cancellations due to war. Their reason for canceling a trip could include, but is not limited to, fear of travel due to the war. Travelers should review the plan document for their state of residence for the requirements to purchase and make a CFAR claim.

What is IFAR?

IFAR is an important option for coverage plans in today's travel climate as it gives travelers the option to interrupt their trip once it has already begun. It is an optional benefit that reimburses travelers for up to 75% of their nonrefundable insured trip cost for unused, prepaid nonrefundable trip expenses. It can also cover additional transportation costs to join a trip if a traveler leaves after their scheduled departure date, rejoins their trip from the point they interrupted it to the next scheduled destination, or travels to their originally scheduled return or final trip destination.

There are several requirements for IFAR, as it expands coverage for trip interruption beyond the list of covered reasons. For example, IFAR is not typically available if the trip is not more than two days, as travelers must interrupt their trip 48 hours or more after their scheduled departure date. Additionally, travelers must buy IFAR within the stated time; this is typically within 20 days of the date the initial trip deposit was made. The availability of optional benefits like IFAR is one of the many reasons it's important to buy travel insurance as soon as possible after the first trip payment or deposit is made.

IFAR does not cover penalties associated with travel arrangements not provided by the travel supplier for the trip and failure of the travel supplier to provide the agreed upon arrangements for the trip for any reason. The benefit was designed to interrupt a trip for any reason the traveler wishes, not because a travel supplier failed to fulfill their agreement.

To date, we have seen a strong adoption rate for the newer benefit of IFAR, with a little more than 17% of direct consumers choosing to add it to their purchase. Generationally, our team sees that IFAR is most popular with millennials and Generation X, each having adoption rates of 26% and 28%, respectively. The addition is least popular with baby boomers, who have an adoption rate of only 12%.

Why was IFAR added to coverage plans?

IFAR was added to Seven Corners' plans to provide improved coverage for customers in response to unpredictable events that can affect travel plans the way COVID-19 did. Examples for when IFAR might be helpful include:

You are not comfortable with the steps your resort is taking regarding COVID-19, and you don't feel comfortable staying there, so you decide to return home early.

Three days into the first leg of your trip you have a disagreement with your host and want to leave, so you decide to go to your next destination early.

You have a falling out with a friend with whom you are traveling and want to come home early.

You have an unexpected financial crisis and want to go home early.

Additionally, if a traveler wants the option to interrupt their trip because of the current war in Ukraine, they could utilize IFAR, the only way to secure coverage for interruptions due to war. Their reason for interrupting a trip could include, but is not limited to, fear of travel due to the war. As with CFAR, travelers should review the plan document for their state of residence for the requirements to purchase and make an IFAR claim.

What is the difference between IFAR and CFAR?

You should add CFAR to travel plans if you could potentially cancel your trip before you've departed, and CFAR typically requires you to cancel 48 hours or more before your scheduled departure date. IFAR comes into play after you've already departed on your trip but no sooner than 48 hours after departure.

What is the cost of CFAR and IFAR?

Travelers can expect most CFAR benefits to increase trip insurance costs by 40% to 50% because the plan now includes much wider coverage for trip cancellation. IFAR is a much less expensive option, increasing the price of a trip protection plan by 10% or less when added.

With CFAR and IFAR, travelers can cancel or interrupt their travel plans for any reason they wish. The increase in price occurs because the insurance company now bears an increased risk.

Both CFAR and IFAR are beneficial travel insurance options for concerned travelers. With these flexible travel insurance benefits, travelers have a way to expand coverage for unanticipated cancellations or interruptions that could affect travel plans. ## Elston Memorial Home Available For Scheduled Tours

The Elston Memorial Home at 400 East Wabash Ave. in Crawfordsville, owned and operated by the Dorothy Q. chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (NSDAR), is now available for scheduled tours.

These tours are available by appointment only. Tours are $7 for adults and $5 for students, with payment in cash only. The tours are for inside, on the ground floor only; there is an optional external architectural tour.

Those interested in scheduling a tour can do so through the Montgomery County Historical Society website, the link for which is www.lane-mchs.org/dorothy-q-chapter-of-nsdar. Alternatively, tours can also be scheduled through the Montgomery County Visitor's Bureau website at www.visitmoco.com/attractions/historic-chapter-house-the-elston-memorial-home/. The Elston Memorial Home is not ADA accessible.

The Dorothy Q Chapter, NSDAR, purchased this home in 1926 from the Elston family who originally built it in 1882. Col. Isaac C. Elston, Jr. (1836-1925), returned to Crawfordsville in 1867 to take over the Elston bank from his recently deceased father, Major Isaac C. Elston (1794-1867). The Colonel and his wife, Sarah Mills Elston wished for a more up to date home. They had 6 children, 5 girls and 1 boy. The Colonel had been looking for an organization to take over his home who would look after it and use it for a good purpose. He accepted the Dorothy Q offer, and upon his passing, his son, I. C. Elston, III., 'Ike' (1873-1964), followed through on the sale. The Dorothy Q Chapter formed The Elston Memorial Home Foundation which holds the title.

The home is located next door to historic Lane Place, the home of Senator Henry and Johanna Lane.

It shares a driveway accessed from Pike Street, across from the City Building.

In 2023, the Chapter will be 125 years old, but the chapter house turned 140 years old this year. Many of the furnishings are original to the Elston Family, and the house is significant for its historic association with a family prominent in the development of Crawfordsville. The house is architecturally significant as a superb example of the eastern stick style, and for the excellence of its craftsmanship, detailing, and high degree of integrity.

5 ideas for investing in the world around you

FAMILY FEATURES

In a world fraught with social, political and environmental strife, a mindset that involves a more community-driven approach can make a meaningful difference. Each person's contributions to improve the earth can send a ripple effect that ultimately transforms communities and the people who live within them.

Consider these examples of actions you can take, some bigger than others, that benefit the larger community.

Create Shared Common Spaces

Nearly every community can benefit from the addition of resources that benefit multiple families. Examples include community gardens, playgrounds, parks and sites for regular farmers' markets, to name a few. These may be wholly new projects or restoring facilities that have faded into disrepair over time. Acquiring the space is often the greatest challenge, but if you're inspired to lead such an effort, forming a committee of like-minded peers can be an effective step toward raising the funds to create a project that benefits the community at large.

Donate to Charitable Causes

Supporting the efforts of existing organizations that help fill gaps in your community is another way you can make a difference. Offering your time as a volunteer is one option. You might provide extra hands for relatively simple jobs like sorting food or clothing donations, or if you have a particular skill, talent or training, donating your time and expertise could help offset administrative expenses and help the organization operate more efficiently. That ultimately means the organization can more effectively deliver on its mission.

Financial contributions are also a meaningful way to support a worthwhile cause in your community. Writing a check may not feel as personal as getting hands-on to help, but without the support of financial donors, philanthropic organizations simply couldn't provide the community resources they do. Many organizations will tell you what level of contribution would be most helpful based on their current fundraising needs, and you may have options for a one-time or ongoing gift.

Snack Smarter

When you're thinking in terms of how to improve your community, your eating choices may not be on your radar. However, what you eat has a major impact on the community in multiple ways. That's why you hear a great deal of talk about sustainability directed at food production, which affects the environment in numerous ways along the food supply chain, from air pollution to waste to energy consumption. By choosing ingredients and foods that minimize the impact on the environment, you can show food manufacturers that consumers want products sourced and produced responsibly.

One example is Airly Oat Cloud crackers; each box explains how many grams of carbon dioxide you are helping remove from the air by supporting an innovative farming technique, which makes agriculture a solution, not a contributor, to climate change. Sustainable can be tasty, too. Made with real, wholesome and 100% delicious ingredients, all four flavor varieties (Cheddar, Sea Salt, Chocolate and Salted Caramel) make for satisfying, convenient anytime snacks.

Support Local Businesses

Particularly over the past couple of years, local businesses have fought hard to stay open, modifying their services, adapting to the times and generally trying to keep themselves and their local employees afloat. Rewarding those efforts by shopping in their stores and hiring their services keeps your money within the local community while keeping your friends and neighbors employed.

Those benefits aside, there are practical advantages to doing your shopping locally, such as lower emissions and energy consumption for transportation to and from the store or business. What's more, businesses that are thriving tend to be stronger corporate citizens, supporting the community's development and philanthropic needs for a true domino effect.

Clean Up Public Spaces

Beautification projects not only make your community a more inviting place to be, they can actually be good for the earth. Removing litter allows natural vegetation and wildlife to thrive, reduces health risks and promotes safety by sending a clear message that the community cares about its space.

Litter management can spur tourism and economic benefits, as well, since more attractive places attract more people. What's more, clean-up initiatives bring neighbors together for a shared cause, and that goodwill generally transcends the one-time event to create a greater sense of connectivity among residents.

A Recipe That Tastes Good While Doing Good

Even the best-tasting desserts can be prepared with thoughtful ingredients and habits that promote sustainability. This Better Than Mama's Banana Pudding recipe features responsibly sourced products, compostable ingredients and other options to be earth-friendly, including recyclable packaging.

Better Than Mama's Banana Pudding

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 can evaporated milk
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 stick butter, cut into 4 tablespoons
- 2 eggs
- 3 tablespoons vanilla
- 1 box Airly Chocolate or Salted Caramel Crackers
- 4 medium bananas, sliced
- whipped topping (optional)

In medium saucepan over medium heat, whisk sugar, brown sugar, salt, flour, evaporated milk, milk, butter and eggs continuously until mixture begins to simmer and thicken, 8-10 minutes.

Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Cover with plastic wrap touching pudding. Let rest 1 hour in refrigerator.

Layer 8-by-8-inch pan with crackers, reserving some for topping; sliced bananas; and pudding. Repeat layers then top with whipped topping, if desired, and sprinkle with crushed crackers.

Tips: Banana peels and eggshells can be composted. Evaporated milk can and cracker box can be recycled.
