FACES OF MONTGOMERY

People who call our community their own.

Donald Carson gives a happy smile for The Paper after a pleasant breakfast at The Forum on a beautiful Saturday morning. Thank you for your smile, Mr Carson!

THREE THINGS You Should Know:

1 Some engineers might build things that are bigger but these engineers created a robot measuring half a millimeter wide -- less than half the width of a grain of sand, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. It's got to be the world's smallest automaton. It looks like a very tiny crab and it walks, it twists and turns and it can jump. And, says Northwestern University engineering professor, it took him and his team about a year and a half to build it. He says it can be used "to repair or assemble small structures or machines in industry or as surgical assistants to clear clogged arteries, to stop internal bleeding or to eliminate cancerous tumors -- all in minimally invasive procedures."

2 "A downward trend in permits in April was expected as mortgage rate increases, inflationary pressures on goods and services, and supply chain disruptions continue to impact the housing industry. Challenges will persist overall for the housing industry across the country in the coming months, but Indiana is well-situated to weather the storm as companies continue to look to Indiana to locate and/or expand their operations," says Indiana Builders Association President, Paul Schwinghammer.

3 The Arts Federation and Tippecanoe County Public Art Team invite all members of the public to a dedication for Greater Lafayette's newest mural, Seen by Oscar Joyo, on May 31 at 4 pm. The mural, which was painted on the Sagamore Parkway North underpass over North 9th Street, is the first in a series of public artworks that will be created this summer across North Central Indiana. TAF and partners hope that Seen serves as an inspiring welcome to the City of Lafayette. Attendees should park in the customer lot on the north side of Knox Services, which is located at 2632 N 9th Street.

New Location And New Opportunities: Athens Arts Launches "Art On Thursdays"

For more than a decade Athens Arts has enriched our community by displaying the work of local artists, hosting nationwide and regional art shows, and featuring individual guest artists' work. This "jewel of downtown," as it often called, brings visitors in from near and far. In honor of its move to a new location, Athens Arts is offering new opportunities to our community.

To accompany the unveiling of Athens Arts' new home at 216 E. Main Street in June, the gallery staff and board is offering a feast of art opportunities all hosted in the new building (former location of Four Seasons Market).

According to board member Ellie Dieckmeyer, "It's really exciting to premier new activ-

While Argument Rages, Innocents Die

I have written several times about school shootings in the past. If there is a more heinous crime in today's world, I do not know what it is -- and that's saying something.

What I fail to understand is the outcry every time for more gun control laws.

STOP! Before you take me behind the woodshed for being another gun-rights activist, please understand I am not.

I haven't fired a gun in decades. I am not a member of the NRA. My point is not about how America will be a better place with guns . . . or without. I do have some views on that, but could we save that argument for another day so we don't confuse the issue?

The issue is what's wrong with our society?

The issue is how far we have fallen from the nation that didn't see the slaughter of innocent children as often as we do today.

The issue is stronger prison sentences, even death penalties.

The issue is a lack of discipline in the home -- and how can you blame mom and dad for not spanking their kids when they fear some sort of consequences from some governmental alphabet agency somewhere.

The issue is the degradation of our society.

Here's a question for you: If we eliminate guns, will that eliminate the killing of children?

The State Of The Economy

On the economy, there's good news, and there's bad news.

The good news is a historically low unemployment rate, at 3.6%. While we saw similar unemployment rates immediately before the pandemic, before 2019 we have to go back to 1969 to find unemployment rates that low. Unemployment rose to 14.7% during the pandemic, but employment has quickly recovered, thanks in large part to the strong policy response.

Two factors contribute to this low unemployment rate: demand is high, and labor force participation is low. Many workers chose to quit or retire early during the pandemic, and not everyone has returned to

Summer Reading At CDPL

Greetings to all readers and "readers to be"! CDPL's Summer Reading Program for Youth and Adults started on May 23rd, and this year we are test driving a new reading platform called Beanstack. While you may still work on your reading using a paper log, we'd like to invite all to experience the opportunity to earn online badges for reading, write book reviews, and add friends to your reading group.

To register online for a free account, go to cdpl.beanstack.com. You can create your account using a computer or download the Beanstack app on your android or iOS device. Adults who prefer a paper format may drop by the Reference Desk to log their reading time or call us at (765)362-22-42, ext. 117. Children and Teens may stop at the Youth Services desk for all their information needs.

This year the Adult Reading Program theme is "World of Wonders." The theme celebrates our participation in the statewide reading program "One State-One Story" supported by the Indiana Humanities organization. After registering for the Adult Program, you must read and log a minimum of 60 minutes a week to enter our weekly prize raffles. Your minutes should be entered by 11:59 pm each Sunday and raffles are held on Mondays for the duration of the program.

At the end of the program, we will be doing a Grand-Prize drawing. To earn a ticket for the Grand Prize drawing, you must complete our "World of Wonders Reading Challenge." The Reading Challenge includes 6 categories of readings that you

CareSource Supports Community Basketball Tournament

CareSource, a nationally recognized nonprofit health plan, announced today they are the League Leading Sponsor of The City League, a community basketball tournament in Indianapolis. The three-year agreement will ensure the sustainability of the community event each summer while increasing access to wellness and other services.

"CareSource knows the importance community gatherings have on health," said Steve Smitherman, president of CareSource Indiana. "Personally, I've coached my children's baseball teams for the past 18 years and see first-hand the impact participation in sports can have on behavioral health and overall wellbeing."

The City League is the product of collaboration between local businesses and organizations to produce a unique basketball event. The energy created by the basketball tournament provides a platform to bring the community together, encourage participation in sports, and improve access to needed services that improve attendees' quality of life. Services include free sports physicals, vaccinations, a job fair and education surrounding women's health.

"We are extremely excited to be working with CareSource to bring together great basketball and important resources to help improve the health of residents on the Near East-side of Indianapolis," said Austin Taylor, executive director of The City League. "Culturally there isn't any single institution in Indiana that transcends the different groups we belong to - race, class, gender, religion, profession - like basketball. It is a simple game that we Hoosiers have embraced like no other people in the world. For this reason, the game is a great tool in bringing diverse groups of people together for collaboration."

This year, the tournament will take place on Wednesday and Thursday nights from June 29 to Aug. 11. Registration and additional information are available at thecityleague.org.

Navy Changes Status Of 13 USS Indianapolis Sailors Lost During World War II

The Navy has officially changed the status of 13 Sailors lost when the USS Indianapolis (CA 35) was sunk in 1945 from "unaccounted for" to "buried at sea," Navy Casualty announced May 27.

The change in status is the result of extensive research between Naval History and Heritage Command, Navy Casualty Office, the USS Indianapolis Survivors Association, the USS Indianapolis Legacy Organization, and the Chief Rick Stone and Family Charitable Foundation.

The announcement helps bring closure to the families of these Sailors who lost their lives at the end of a secret mission which helped end World War II.

The USS Indianapolis sank on July 30, 1945, after being struck by two Japanese torpedoes.

The Sailors whose status changed are:

- Seaman 1st Class George Stanley Abbott - Bedford, Kentucky
- Seaman 2nd Class Eugene Clifford Batson - Kansas City, Kansas
- Gunner's Mate 1st Class William Alexander Haynes - Homedale, Idaho
- Seaman 2nd Class Albert Raymond Kelly - Cleveland, Ohio

Seaman 1st Class Albert Davis Lundgren - Washington, D.C.

Fireman 1st Class Ollie McHone - Mars Hill, Arkansas

Seaman 2nd Class George David Payne - Grand Rapids, Michigan

Storekeeper 3rd Class Alvin Wilder Rahn - Hamlet, North Carolina

Ship's Cook 3rd Class Jose Antonio Saenz - Edinburg, Texas

Coxswain Charles Byrd Sparks - Birmingham, Alabama

Radioman 2nd Class Joseph Mason Strain - Creston, Iowa

SSML3 Angelo Anthony Sudano - Niles, Ohio

Gunner's Mate 3rd Class Floyd Ralph Wolfe - Turner, Oregon

Approximately 300 of the ship's 1,195 Sailors went down with the ship, and some 900 men were set adrift. Only 316 survived. Due to administrative errors, many Sailors who were recovered from the ocean and buried at sea from responding vessels were misclassified as "missing in action" or "unaccounted for."

According to Rick Stone, who previously served at NHHC, he initiated the USS Indianapolis Burial at Sea Project to determine if any Indianapolis casualties met this criteria. Following his retirement from government service, he established the Chief Rick Stone and Family Charitable Foundation to continue the project and located documentation proving the 13 Sailors were misclassified.

According to the foundation's USS Indianapolis Burial at Sea Project web page, "recovering a lost Sailor, giving their loved ones and family closure, is the greatest gift we can imagine and the greatest way to celebrate and thank the Sailors who lost their lives aboard the USS Indianapolis."

"One of my favorite quotes is 'Poor is the nation that has no heroes but shameful is the nation who, having heroes, forgets them,'" Stone said. "Our foundation will never forget the heroes of the USS Indianapolis and are proud of our role in helping thirteen families learn that the Navy went to great lengths to honor them soon after their deaths."

Capt. Robert McMahon, director of the Navy Casualty Office, said bringing closure to families of those lost at sea is a "solemn duty and obligation" he takes to heart.

"Nothing is more important to me than giving families that knowledge when the unthinkable happens," he said. "No amount of time lessens the loss, however, if we can bring some certainty to loved ones, even seven decades later, we are keeping faith with those we lost."

One of those family members, William Baxter, nephew of Gunner's Mate 3rd Class Wolfe, was notified April 26 of the change in status. Sailors from Naval Medical Readiness and Training Command Beaufort, South Carolina, arrived at his door with a certificate and flag to recognize Wolfe's sacrifice.

Baxter, an Okatie, South Carolina, native, said while he did not know his uncle, "it's nice to finally have some closure to what actually happened to [him]. Thank you all for going above and beyond for me and my family. I wasn't expecting all of this, but thank you."

"It was an absolute honor and a privilege to be a part of informing Mr. Baxter and his family of his uncle's status change, and also being a part of history," said Hospital Corpsman 2nd Class Naomi Hall, one of the Sailors from NMRTC Beaufort involved in making notifications.

Navy Casualty's mission is providing timely and first-class casualty assistance to Navy families when a Sailor is seriously ill or injured, is placed in a duty status whereabouts unknown (DUSTWUN), or is declared missing and/or Prisoner of War or dies. the labor force. Access to child care is still a problem keeping some people from working. The labor force, which includes those looking for work as well as those employed, fell from 63.4% of the adult population in Feb. 2020 to 60.2% in April 2020; recovery has been slow, and we are currently at 62.2%, still below where we were before the pandemic.

Many employers are finding it difficult to hire workers. This gives workers more bargaining power, allowing them to get higher wages and better working conditions. It also contributes to supply-chain issues that started during the pandemic and continue to persist.

The bad news is high inflation, at 8.3%. This is the highest inflation has been since 1982. Most people don't remember a time when inflation was this high.

The causes of inflation are not difficult to find. Pandemic shutdowns and supply chain disruptions reduced the supply of goods available, while stimulus checks supported demand. The result was rising prices. Stimulus spending during the pandemic was five times as high as the stimulus bill passed for the 2008 recession. This is a good thing because it supported the incomes of people forced to stay home to limit the spread of Covid, and it supported the rapid recovery of employment. But the stimulus did have costs. With more income chasing fewer goods, prices rose.

Inflation had already started to become a problem when we were hit by a second dose of inflation, this time due to the war in Ukraine. Sanctions on Russian oil and gas have increased energy prices; this is most visible at the gasoline pump, but affects the prices of everything using energy as an input. Ukraine is an important exporter of wheat and sunflower oil, and the war has made it more difficult to harvest and export these products, so supply is down and prices are up. We can grow more wheat and oil, but farmers are facing higher prices for fertilizer, which is made from petroleum.

What can be done about inflation? We know how to reduce inflation, the problem is that the medicine has painful side effects. The Federal Reserve can reduce inflation by increasing interest rates, but higher interest rates will slow the economy, causing higher unemployment. So policymakers have a difficult choice: do we increase unemployment in order to keep inflation under control, or do we keep unemployment low and allow high inflation to persist? The Federal Reserve's mandate it to maintain stable prices and employment, so it has a difficult balancing act to perform. The Fed has already started to increase interest rates, and this will increase the unemployment rate. We hope that it can stop inflation without causing a recession, but that remains to be seen.

I think not. Sick people are sick people. If it's not a gun it'll be something else. Disagree? Then shouldn't we be doing away with cars to stop drunk driving and prevent morons from running people over on purpose? Do you hear anyone suggesting that?

For God's sake, we keep talking about the method and not the reason behind it.

Truth to tell, there are plenty of answers, but we don't seem to have the will, or perhaps the stomach, to implement them. The government could indeed help the family unit get stronger. How? Change taxes, change a lot of things so that every household doesn't have to have two incomes. Maybe give tax credits for one parent being a full-time homemaker.

And I'm sick of politicians telling us they can't do something. They seem to have found ways to hold office for decades and increase their personal wealth at the same time. They have helped create tax laws that take up volumes and are so complicated not even they understand them. If those hired hands wanted to give the family a true tax break, they could figure it out. What else? Bring the churches back into the fold. Stop outlawing the mention of God in our schools. Speaking of schools, give teachers the authority to discipline without fear of being sued. Lastly, change the damn laws. If someone wants to do something wrong, make the penalty a true deterrent.

Look, I have never claimed to be the smartest guy in the room. But there are some things painfully obvious here.

We (and I don't care if you have been part of the following or not - last I looked "we" are still all Americans and supposedly on the same team) have been calling for the defunding of police for a few years now. We have become so soft as a nation that you can't tell someone they're wrong or disagree without the risk of sending them into counseling. We have lowered standards left and right to the point where people don't have to work hard to achieve anything anymore. And when they fall short, the government bails them out. We have turned into a nation foolishly chasing utopia. We let the exceptions guide us while leaving the majority out of consideration. If there is one act of police brutality, mayors in metropolitan cities from one coast to another call for defunding the police. If one gay person is discriminated against, there's a national outcry on the 6 o'clock news.

If we're all being honest, we can agree that in a perfect world there would be no such thing as police brutality, racism and bias. In a perfect world, I would weigh 225 and have 5 percent body fat. In a perfect world, I'd be laying on a beach and you'd be reading someone else's work right now. But you know what? It. Ain't. A. Perfect. World.

Idiots will be idiots. Bigots will be bigots. Perhaps we can influence a few to grow in their humanity, but we'll never change them all.

We all know that, yet we all keep going down the same path of letting the exception rule the day.

Let's get back to the current argument. The left screams to eliminate guns - yet anybody want to bet what security guards for the Hollywood elite carry under their blazer? Conservatives scream that the right to bear arms can't even be discussed or the whole country will fall apart.

Do any of them look for common ground? Do any of them acknowledge that both sides have some valid points? Are any of them looking for real answers, or just for their side to win? Do any of them stop to consider that while they spend all their time making political statements and grandstanding more kids have died?

ENOUGH!

A friend sent me an e-mail the other day with a simple message: We are no longer accepting things we cannot change. It is now time to change the things we cannot accept.

It's well past time. But what are we going to do about it?

Hearing Loss Makes Your BRAIN WORK HARDER

If you're struggling to hear, you don't just miss a few sounds here or there. New research shows that adults with hearing loss experience a 40% faster decline in cognitive abilities. This suggests that the entire brain may be struggling to fill in the gaps caused by untreated hearing loss.

Beltone Hearing Care Practitioners point to new research. "Several studies have done imaging to look at the brains of people with varying degrees of hearing loss," Beltone says.

With normal hearing, the section of the brain that's responsible for hearing lights up during imaging. But the scans reveal a different picture for a person with untreated hearing loss. Researchers found that the hearing center of the brain shrinks in age-related hearing loss. Therefore, other areas of the brain necessary for memory and thinking must take over to help compensate. That's why people with hearing loss are more fatigued at the end of the day. Your brain is having to work harder if you have untreated hearing loss.

"We want to keep you as healthy as we possibly can. And with hearing aids, you're not only taking care of your hearing and your relationships, but we have the potential, because of the auditory stimulation, to provide benefit for your brain health."

The symptoms may be obvious when you're struggling to hear your grandchild or trying hard to follow a conversation in a crowded place, but many people do not realize that even when you're home alone or in a quiet environment, your brain is still having to work harder than it should to compensate for your hearing loss.

Thankfully, research is showing that when hearing loss is detected early and treated with hearing aids, the brain can reorganize itself back to its usual operation. This research may help explain the link between hearing loss, cognitive decline and memory loss.

Beltone Hearing Care Practitioner

Beltone Hearing Care Practitioners say "We want to keep you as healthy as we possibly can. With hearing aids, you're not only taking care of your hearing and your relationships, but we have the potential, because of the auditory stimulation, to provide benefit for your brain health. Hearing loss is not just about your ears. A lot of people tell us that they 'get by just fine', but we remind them that they need to think beyond communication and instead think in terms of overall health."

Complimentary Services:

- ✓ Complete Hearing Screening
- ✓ Demonstration of the latest Beltone Technology

BUILD A RELATIONSHIP with a Hearing Care Specialist you can trust

If you've had a hearing exam before, you can expect a very different experience when you walk into Beltone. The Specialists readily admit that their goal is to help treat hearing loss, not to sell you a hearing aid.

"Often people walk in and their guard is up," say Beltone. "We get it. They say, 'I don't want to be sold to'. I say, 'Great! You're in a great spot!' We're health professionals, working in your best interest."

While many folks shop for the lowest price for hearing aids, it is highly recommended to shop for the best healthcare professional that you feel comfortable with to ensure your satisfaction and success.

"Think of your hearing in terms of the whole package. If you needed knee surgery, would you shop for the cheapest implant or the most qualified and experienced surgeon to provide the best product, outcome and follow-up care?"

You will be satisfied not when you pay the lowest price but when you get the best overall value for your investment, which is why at Beltone we are professional hearing care specialists that offer the most advanced hearing technology and service.

We pull from over 80 years of hearing healthcare experience and expertise to truly customize options to each individual budget and lifestyle.

Instead of focusing solely on price, We suggest you meet with a hearing care specialist who can not only determine if you have hearing loss and suggest a course of treatment, but work with you every step of the way to improve your quality of life.

"We come at hearing in terms of overall health. We want to build a relationship with you throughout your life. We understand the emotional and financial investment involved, which is why our goal is to keep you hearing your best for as long as we possibly can," Beltone says.

Beltone will provide an honest and clear path for your hearing loss. At Beltone we stand behind everything we do. If you're unhappy with the devices, we don't want you to leave them in the drawer. We set people up for success so they have a positive experience. We know it's an investment, and that's why we're going to take care of you.

TIME TO TAKE YOUR HEARING HEALTH SERIOUSLY

Hearing may be the most underappreciated of the five senses. If you can't see well, of course, you'll visit a licensed eye doctor to get glasses or contacts to correct your vision. But, in this day and age, people are still hesitant to see a hearing care specialist, professionals that are highly trained to treat hearing loss.

"The reasons are endless," says Beltone. "Many of us don't think we're old enough to need hearing aids, or we worry they'll make us look older. Some of us don't think our hearing loss is bad enough to need help, or we're worried about the cost."

The fact is that even a mild hearing loss may be affecting your brain function, your sense of balance and your relationships with family and friends.

"Hearing loss is hard on relationships."

You may think the simple solution is to just turn the TV louder or ask your kids or grandkids to speak up, but even a mild hearing loss can affect you in countless ways. If your hearing is at all impaired, your brain has to work harder, trying to make out words and sounds. A hearing loss can make it harder to interact in social situations, to spend time with family, or to be productive at work. Research has linked untreated hearing loss with cognitive decline, dementia and an increased risk of falls.

THE SOLUTION: Resolve to schedule a free hearing exam. It's quick, easy, and will provide you with the information you need to move forward in life.
