Psalms 1:1-3 Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night. And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

➔ THREE THINGS You Should Know:

1 Each year the Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show, America's oldest dog show, celebrates the world's "most perfect dogs," says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. But, what about the not-so-perfect hounds? They get their chance for international attention at the World's Ugliest Dog Contest in Petaluma, CA.-- an annual event that dates back to the 1970s. Mr. Happy Face, a Chinese crested-chihuahua mix, won this year's competition on June 24. In a bio for the event, the pooch's owner Janeda Banelly of Arizona described Happy Face as a "humble soul" and "an example, in subtle ways, to help humans realize that even old dogs need love and a family too."

2 Celebrate World Snake Day with Clifty Falls on Saturday, July 16. At 10 a.m. at the Nature Center, meet one of the park's resident snakes and discover the unique adaptations of these scaly creatures. At 2 p.m., come to the pool to go on a Snake Stroll, or at 8 p.m. make your very own snake mobile at the campground amphitheater. Find more details about these programs and more at on.IN.gov/CliftyFalls.

3 Governor Eric J. Holcomb is directing flags in the State of Indiana to be flown at half-staff in honor and remembrance of former Prime Minister of Japan, Shinzo Abe. Per President Biden's order, flags should be flown at half-staff immediately until sunset, Sunday, July 10. Gov. Holcomb is asking businesses and residents in Indiana to lower their flags.

Ask Rusty – About Working While Collecting Early Benefits

Dear Rusty: How much would be withheld from my social security benefits? I am 62 and can claim about $1,900 a month now. I'm still working, making about $75K per year. How much of my benefits would I get? What would be withheld from me and when would I get it back? And would there be any penalty? Signed: Eligible but Working

Dear Eligible: In the scenario you describe, you will not be eligible to collect Social Security retirement benefits at this time because your earnings are too high. Here's how that is determined:

• At age 62, you are subject to Social Security's "earnings test" which limits how much you can earn while collecting early benefits. The earnings limit applies until you reach your full retirement age (FRA), which for you is 67.

• Your penalty for exceeding the earnings limit now would be $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. At your current salary of $75K per year, you will be over

Seniors Gambling on Getting Tech Savvy

By John Grimaldi
The statistics show that a growing number of senior citizens are becoming tech savvy. Perhaps the isolation protocols of the pandemic have helped encourage the elderly set to accept computers as a means of keeping in touch with friends and relations and as a way to shop online.

The FandomSpot website, focused on Internet content, recently conducted a survey of 1,000 computer users aged 65-plus and found that most of them, 76%, go online because it helps to stimulate their brains. The poll also found that nearly half of those who took part in the survey had spent $500 or more on computer paraphernalia. As FandomSpot's Alyssa Celatti told the New York Post, "Old people don't just want to sit on the porch and watch leaves fall, they want to have fun. This study might even

Retirees Are Back to Work

By John Grimaldi
More senior citizens are saying, "I'm too young to retire." Some simply can't afford to retire; others remain in the workforce because it makes them feel productive. In fact, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says that by 2028, nearly one in four seniors 65 years old and older will be working. They'll be staying on the job or they'll come out of retirement in search of work that can give them a sense of accomplishment.

Court Rules On Dismemberment Abortions

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita this week announced a historic legal win in his work to protect the lives and liberty of the unborn.

After the Supreme Court's Dobbs decision, Rokita filed a motion to lift the current injunction on dismemberment abortions, which occur well after the unborn baby is fully developed. A federal district court granted that motion Thursday.

"The court's ruling this week vacating its earlier injunction that permitted this gruesome procedure to continue is an exciting battle victory in our war to defend the unborn and protect women," Rokita said. "My office will continue to take all necessary steps to limit abortion, assist mothers, empower families to choose life, and ultimately protect the lives of the unborn."

In a separate case, Rokita filed a motion Friday with the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals to reestablish the parental notice requirement for minors to have an abortion. A district court ruled yesterday that it did not have jurisdiction to consider that motion.

"Indiana has a long history of defending life," Rokita said. "I'll continue to do everything in my power to protect unborn children and the physical, mental, and emotional well-being of their mothers."

Get Your Heart Pumping And Give Blood To Help Prevent A Summer Blood Shortage

The American Red Cross and Discovery are partnering for Shark Week and invite people to dive in to help save lives by giving blood in July. The Red Cross saw a steep drop in blood and platelet donations last month, and donors are asked to make appointments now to prevent a blood shortage this summer.

In June, the Red Cross collected approximately 12% fewer blood donations than needed – one of the largest monthly blood donation shortfalls in recent years. Here in the Indiana Region, nearly 14% less donations were made than expected. When less people answer the call to donate, the blood supply shrinks – and that could mean blood products aren't ready for hospital staff to reach for in emergencies.

Thanks to Discovery, all who come to give blood in July will automatically be entered for a chance to win an exclusive Shark Week merchandise package that includes:

- Beach bike
- Smokeless portable fire pit
- Paddle board
- Kayak
- $500 gift card to put toward accessories

Those who come to give July 21-24 will get an exclusive Shark Week T-shirt from Discovery, while supplies last. Details are available at rcblood.org/sharkweek.

By making and keeping blood donation appointments in July, donors can connect with patients through a lifesaving gift. To book a time to give, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

Blood drive safety The Red Cross follows a high standard of safety and infection control. The Red Cross will continue to socially distance wherever possible at blood drives, donation centers and facilities. While donors are no longer required to wear a face mask, individuals may choose to continue to wear a mask for any reason. The Red Cross will also adhere to more stringent face mask requirements per state and/or local guidance, or at the request of blood drive sponsors. Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving at a drive.

How to donate blood Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit

RedCrossBlood.org, call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enable the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

Amplify Your Impact @ Volunteer!

Another way to support the lifesaving mission of the Red Cross is to become a volunteer blood donor ambassador at Red Cross blood drives. Blood donor ambassadors help greet, check-in and thank blood donors to ensure they have a positive donation experience.

Volunteers can also serve as transportation specialists, playing a vital role in ensuring lifesaving blood products are delivered to nearby hospitals. For more information and to apply for either position, contact redcrossrecruitsin@redcross.org or visit <https://www.redcross.org/volunteer-today>.

About the American Red Cross: The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides comfort to victims of disasters; supplies about 40% of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; distributes international humanitarian aid; and supports veterans, military members and their families. The Red Cross is a nonprofit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to deliver its mission. For more information, please visit redcross.org or Cruz-RojaAmericana.org, or visit us on Twitter at @RedCross.

Letters

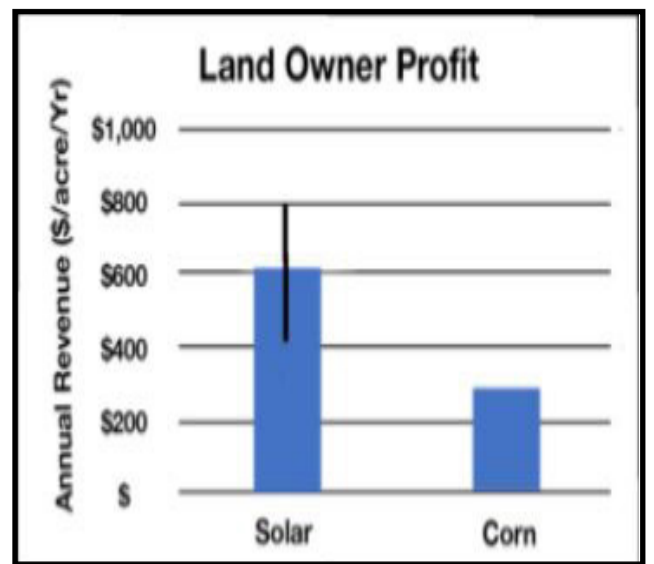

League Of Women Voters Of Indiana

EDITOR'S NOTE: John Smillie, chair of the local League of Women Voters Local Government Committee wrote this letter to county commissioners and county council members. The League and Mr. Smillie asked The Paper to publish it as well.

Dear County Commissioners:
The League of Women Voters of Montgomery County recommends that we do not increase setbacks for solar development.

The proposed 500-foot setback from non-participating residences would create, if drawn as a square, a 23-acre zone around every non-participating house. This is 11 times the size of the zone created by the 150-foot recommendation in the Indiana University model solar ordinance, or 4 times the size of the 250-foot recommendation by the state. This could impose significant restrictions to neighbors' property rights, and block large parcels of land to solar development.

There's little to no benefit to increasing setbacks to a full 500 feet. Solar panels have no emissions, odor, or health risks, and the slight daytime hum from inverters is already inaudible at 150 feet. The only remaining consideration is visual aesthetics, which are addressed more effectively with less restriction on property owners through screening - with vegetation or other means - and reasonable height limits. These measures are also addressed in the IU model ordinance.

Excessive restrictions will not only impinge on property owners' rights and economic opportunities, but on the economic opportunities of Montgomery County as a whole. An acre of solar panels can produce 350 MWh of energy per acre per year. At wholesale prices of $36/MWh, that's $12,600 of revenue. This compares to corn at $1,418 per acre (195 bushels per acre, $7.27/bushel). What goes back to the property owner varies based on a number of factors, but it is estimated at $400-800 for solar versus $276 for corn.

And that's not to say every acre of solar competes with agriculture, either. Solar can be sited on marginal or depleted land, or land otherwise unsuited for crops or other development. It can also be easily combined with grazing or pollinator habitat (or, with some design modifications, even crops themselves). We know that farmers are proud stewards of our land and work hard to maximize its productivity. They deserve to have the option to put their land to its best use, and in some cases that use will be capturing energy from sunlight - something already done with corn ethanol, but at 1/30th the efficiency of solar panels.

There are wider economic benefits as well. Because it is fuel-free, renewable energy helps keep power prices down as the costs of fuel such as coal and gas rise. Renewable attracts businesses - it's directly cited by Tempur Sealy as one of the reasons they came to Montgomery County. To restrict solar development with setbacks that are far beyond expert recommendations and the standards adopted by other communities would be to do Montgomery County and our citizens a great disservice.

Best Regards,
The Board of the League of Women Voters of Montgomery County.

the 2022 annual earnings limit of $19,560 by $55,440, which means you would owe Social Security $27,720. Since your age 62 benefit amount is about $1900 per month ($22,800/year), your annual SS benefit would be insufficient to offset the penalty for exceeding the earnings limit, thus you would not be entitled to a Social Security benefit because of your current earnings. You will again be eligible to collect SS when your earnings are substantially less, or when you reach your full retirement age, whichever occurs first. Social Security's earnings test affects everyone who works and earns when collecting benefits before reaching full retirement age. Each year, Social Security sets a limit for how much can be earned before benefits are affected (the 2022 limit is $19,560; it increases slightly each year). Those who exceed the limit pay a "penalty" of $1 for every $2 they are over the limit, which must be paid to SS either in a lump sum, or by having benefits withheld for enough months for SS to recover what is owed. If your Social Security benefit isn't enough to offset the penalty for exceeding the earnings limit, no benefits will be paid. Those collecting early benefits who earn only slightly more than the annual earnings limit can collect some benefits each year because their penalty is small enough. For example, someone earning $25,000 per year would exceed the 2022 earnings limit by $5440 and, thus, incur a penalty of $2720. That would probably mean about 2 months of withheld benefits, enabling them to get benefits for the remaining 10 months of the year. Social Security will withhold benefits for enough months to recover whatever the beneficiary owes for exceeding the limit. The rules surrounding Social Security's earnings test are somewhat complex. For example, there is a "first year rule" which exempts salary earned prior to claiming SS from counting toward the earnings limit. When someone first claims Social Security mid-year they are, instead, subject to a monthly limit ($1630 for 2022) for the remaining months of the calendar year. If the monthly limit is exceeded, no benefits are payable for that month. The earnings limit no longer applies when full retirement age is reached but is still in effect in the months of that year prior to attaining FRA. The earnings limit during those months is much higher and the "penalty" for exceeding it is less. Social Security prefers that those working and collecting early benefits contact them in advance to withhold benefits for as long as needed to offset the expected penalty. Doing so will avoid an Overpayment Notice being issued in the following year when your earnings amount is received from the IRS. After full retirement age, Social Security will adjust the beneficiary's payment to account for months benefits were withheld and increase the monthly amount accordingly. That will result in some, or perhaps all, of the withheld benefits being recovered over time (depending on longevity).

encourage more senior citizens to give gaming a go for some of the benefits cited by their peers." That's all well and good, but there is a sinister side of online gaming when gaming is a synonym for gambling. Rethinking65.com, an online resource for financial advisors, warns that "As [online] gambling platforms multiply, some people in or near retirement might be tempted to roll the dice on their wealth accumulated over a lifetime. And financial advisors may find themselves on the front line of helping clients for whom casual gambling becomes a compulsion that could drain their savings." For some seniors gambling might be a stimulant but for others it could be all about the appeal of so-called "easy money," especially for those on fixed incomes. "But gambling also can numb the pain of chronic health problems and provide an escape from lifestyle issues. It can distract from anxiety," says Felicia Grondin, executive director of the Council on Compulsive Gambling of New Jersey. And she told Rethinking65, "the proliferation of new casino locales and of heavily advertised online gaming sites can be a siren call to those filling emotional needs." The Centre for Addiction and Mental Health [CAMH], Canada's largest mental health teaching hospital, says that gambling is not a problem for most people, including seniors. CAMH provides a list of things to look for that might signal that it has become or is becoming a problem:

- spending more on gambling than intended
- feeling bad, sad or guilty about gambling
- placing larger, more frequent bets
- not having enough money for food, rent or bills after gambling
- loss of interest and participation in normal activities with friends and family
- placing a high priority on gambling
- being secretive about the amount of time and money spent gambling.

The senior living company, Provision Living, conducted a survey of more than 1,000 seniors between the ages of 65 and 85 who were working full time or part time. The poll found that 47% of respondents wished they could retire but were still working to make ends meet. Meanwhile, 53% said they chose to stay on the job, full time or part time, because they could. Among the old timers who were still working, most of them -- 45% -- said they enjoy it, 18% said they would be bored were it not for their jobs and six percent work for social engagement. A more recent poll conducted last month by CNBC focused on men and women who quit or lost their jobs during the height of the pandemic, among them a significant number of retirees. It found that 94% of them would consider getting back to work but only for the right job and the right pay. Meanwhile, 68% of retirees who participated in the survey said they would consider getting back to work for the right pay and a flexible work schedule. There was a time when older workers found it hard to find a job. These days, however, hiring seniors seems to be a trend. The Great Senior Living website reports that "many employers now actively look to hire seniors. More and more of them are starting to recognize that experienced and mature workers often have strengths that some younger workers lack. For example, many older workers exhibit strengths like loyalty, a strong work ethic and a good attitude." The online job site,

Indeed.com offers advice for seniors who are deciding to go back to work. "If you're returning to work out of a desire to keep busy, interact with your community or explore a new career field, your job out of retirement may look different from your previous career. This can be an exciting opportunity to discover new occupations or develop existing hobbies. If you're an avid gardener, you could explore part-time employment at a local gardening center. If you're a golf enthusiast, consider applying to a sporting goods store or golf course ... Those with extensive experience in an industry may even choose to capitalize on their background and begin an independent venture. Starting your own business can be an exciting opportunity."
