Isaiah 54:17 No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD, and their righteousness is of me, saith the LORD.

THREE THINGS You Should Know:

1 The experts say that your rubber tires will not stop lighting from striking your car, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. It's a lesson that Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whalen learned the hard way as they were driving in a storm near Tampa, FL recently. Edward was in his truck and Michelle was behind him in her car when a bolt of lightning struck the truck and proceeded to hit her car. It was a fierce storm and it was all caught on video. A county deputy, Kristen Miceli, happened to be driving in the next lane and saw the whole thing. No one was injured.

2 Purdue specialists invite small- and large-operation farmers and growers to attend the Purdue Fruit, Vegetable and Hemp Field Day on July 21, 2022, from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. EDT at the Meigs Purdue Ag Center. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m., and lunch will be provided.

3 Celebrate World Snake Day with Clifty Falls on Saturday, July 16. At 10 a.m. at the Nature Center, meet one of the park's resident snakes and discover the unique adaptations of these scaly creatures. At 2 p.m., come to the pool to go on a Snake Stroll, or at 8 p.m. make your very own snake mobile at the campground amphitheater. ## Why You Should Talk To People You Don't Know

I recently took Amtrak from Chicago to Portland, a 47-hour trip. Space in the dining car was limited, so when eating our meals we were assigned to sit at a booth with another couple, and at each meal we talked to someone different. The conversations were not deep, but it was delightful to meet new people, and it got me thinking about how rarely I talk to people I don't know.

Who do you talk to on a typical day? If you have a job that involves the public, you probably talk to people you don't know all the time. If you don't have such a job, you may interact mainly with people you know. Depending on your job and your personality, you might go through the day without talking to anyone you don't know well. You should, though. Conversations with acquaintanc-

Alternate Histories

Have you ever wondered what the world would be like if just one thing in history had happened differently? Well, that is the theme of our "Alternate History" Display. It features books in which some detail of history has been changed and thus the world is a much different place.

If you're new to the concept of alternate history books, I recommend checking out Stephen King's 11/22/63 (FIC Kin). You can always rely on Stephen King for a good thriller and this book is no exception. Jack Epping is an English teacher who learns that his friend Al has a portal to

Appeals Court Hands Pro-Life Side Another Victory

The 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals on Monday vacated judgments invalidating several Indiana laws protecting unborn children and the health of their mothers — handing the Office of the Attorney General and all Hoosiers yet another victory in the fight for life.

The decision involved the ongoing case Whole Woman's Health Alliance v. Rokita — a legal battle that began with a lawsuit against the state back in 2018.

“Our team has fought long and hard in this case as part of our larger effort to build a culture of life in Indiana,” Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita said. “With the U.S. Supreme Court’s decision in the Dobbs case, it is clear that life is winning. But we will stay relentless in doing the right thing for unborn babies and their mothers’ well-being.”

The lawsuit filed in the Whole Woman’s Health case amounted to a full-scale assault on Indiana’s state of abortion laws. Although Rokita’s team already had prevailed in defending most of those laws, a handful of injunctions remained.

Among other things, laws affected by Monday’s ruling include minimum facilities requirements for surgical and chemical abortion clinics as well as requirements that medical personnel advise women that human physical life begins at fertilization and that “objective scientific information shows that a fetus can feel pain at or before twenty (20) weeks of postfertilization age.”

Rokita’s office had previously secured a stay of injunctions barring enforcement of requirements that only physicians may provide medication abortions; that second-trimester abortions may only be performed in hospitals or ambulatory surgical centers; that women considering abortions receive in-person counseling; and that women considering abortions receive in-person examinations. The judgments against these laws have now been formally vacated as well.

Last week, Rokita announced another historic pro-life legal win after a federal district court granted his motion to lift an injunction on dismemberment abortions, which occur well after an unborn baby is fully developed.

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED LEASE CRAWFORDSVILLE COMMUNITY SCHOOL CORPORATION
 You are hereby notified that a public hearing will be held before the Board of School Trustee (the "Board") on August 18, 2022 at the hour of 6:00 p.m. (Local Time) at the Administration Building, 1000 Fairview Ave., Crawfordsville, Indiana, upon, a proposed Lease Agreement (the "Lease") to be entered into between a nonprofit building corporation (the "Building Corporation"), as lessor, and Crawfordsville Community School Corporation (the "School Corporation"), as lessee.
 The proposed Lease upon which the hearing will be held is for a term of thirteen (13) years, commencing with the date of closing on the bonds issued by the Building Corporation. The Lease provides for rental during renovation of a portion of the leased premises in the amount of up to $980,000 per payment payable on June 30 and December 31, beginning on June 30, 2023, until completion of the administration building to be constructed upon the leased premises. Thereafter, the Lease provides for a maximum annual rental of $1,960,000, payable on June 30 and December 31 of each year during the term of the Lease, commencing with the completion of the building or June 30, 2024, whichever is later. Upon the completion of construction of the administration building, the parties agree to execute a termination of the Lease, solely as to Laura Hose Elementary School.
 As additional rental, the School Corporation shall maintain insurance on the building as required in the Lease, shall pay all taxes and assessments against such property, as well as the cost of alterations and repairs, and shall pay rebate amounts to the United States Treasury, as necessary. After the sale by the Building Corporation of its ad valorem property tax first mortgage bonds to pay for the cost of the construction and renovation, including the acquisition of real estate and other expenses incidental thereto, the annual rental shall be reduced to an amount equal to the multiple of $1,000 next higher than the sum of principal and interest due on such bonds in each twelve-month period ending on January 15 plus $5,000, payable in equal semiannual installments.
 The Lease gives an option to the School Corporation to purchase the property on any rental payment date.
 The Leased Premises consists of (i) the real estate upon which a new administration building will be constructed at the Crawfordsville High School campus, and (ii) Laura Hose Elementary School, both located in Crawfordsville, Indiana.
 The plans and estimates for the cost of said construction and renovation, as well as a copy of the proposed Lease, are available for inspection by the public on all business days, during business hours, at the Administration Building of the School Corporation, 1000 Fairview Avenue, Crawfordsville, Indiana.
 At such hearing all persons interested shall have a right to be heard upon the necessity for the execution of the Lease, and upon whether the Lease rental provided for therein to be paid to the Building Corporation is a fair and reasonable rental for the proposed construction and renovation. Such hearing may be adjourned to a later date or dates, and following such hearing the Board of the School Corporation may either authorize the execution of the Lease as originally agreed upon or may make modifications therein as may be agreed upon with the Building Corporation.

Governor Honors Outstanding Hoosier African Americans

Earlier this week, Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb honored six African American Hoosiers for their exceptional efforts across diverse fields—including education, entrepreneurship, and civil rights—at the Governor's Awards Reception, held in conjunction with the 51st Indiana Black Expo Summer Celebration. The reception acknowledges the outstanding achievements of African Americans throughout the state.

These awards recognize some of Indiana's unsung heroes who have made significant contributions to increasing collaboration and understanding between all Hoosiers. As part of

The Third Volume Of Parents' Bill Of Rights Available

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita recently released the third volume of the Parents' Bill of Rights — this time focusing on school choice, the liberty of parents to choose where their children attend school.

"It is a parent's sacred duty to raise their children according to their values. Above all others, parents are the ones best suited to make decisions on their children's behalf, including the schools they attend," Rokita said. "I will always fight for parents' fundamental and constitutional rights to direct the upbringing and education of their children."

Among other things, the latest installment of the Parents' Bill of Rights outlines laws and processes enabling parents to:

- enroll students in private schools through Indiana's school choice programs;
- transfer students from one public school to another; or homeschool. Indiana has one of the most robust school choice programs in the country, with over 35,000 students receiving Choice Scholarships in 2021.

"In addition to making sure parents are well-informed of their rights," Rokita said, "I will continue advocating for legislation that puts the needs and interests of parents and students ahead of other entrenched forces such as teachers' unions."

Last session, the Indiana General Assembly passed into law two proposals supported by Rokita — one requiring public comment be allowed at school board meetings and another protecting biological females participating in girls' sports.

The Parents' Bill of Rights continues to highlight for parents and taxpayers areas in which they may find gaps and omissions in state law. Future legislative priorities could include measures 1) requiring schools to make curriculum available for parents to view and 2) prohibiting curriculum that teaches the concept that people should be treated differently solely because of their race, religion, sex, or other characteristics.

Rokita released the first volume of his Parents' Bill of Rights in June 2021. That installment focused on school governance, curriculum adoption, standards adoption, and civil rights complaints.

The second volume, released in November 2021, detailed parents' rights regarding medical decisions for their children, such as access to student health records, vaccination requirements, and educational accommodations.

A fourth installment is also in the works. It will cover religious liberty in schools, making clear that students have a right to practice their faith inside the schoolhouse gates.

IWU Renames Pre-med Program To Pre-Health Care Sciences Program

Indiana Wesleyan University has renamed its Pre-med Program, which will now be known as the Pre-Health Care Sciences (Non-Nursing) Program. The new name reflects a more accurate description of all that the program offers to IWU students, including 12 unique concentration paths.

“The old name was somewhat of a misnomer in that in addition to preparing students for medical school entrance, our program prepares students for eleven other kinds of health care professions schools,” said Dr. Daniel Jones, professor of Biology at IWU.

The 12 concentration paths within the Pre-Health Care Sciences Program include:

- Pre-athletic training
- Pre-chiropractic medicine
- Pre-dentistry
- Pre-medicine (DO, DPM, MD)
- Pre-occupational therapy
- Pre-optometry
- Pre-pharmacy
- Pre-physical therapy
- Pre-physician assistant
- Pre-public health
- Pre-speech pathology/audiology
- Pre-veterinary medicine

Concentrations, which can be combined with any major, are housed within the Health and Human Performance as well as the Natural Sciences Divisions.

While the program’s name may be new, the curriculum has remained committed to preparing students for their future. All students in the Pre-Health Care Sciences Program take a common core of courses. In addition, they complete a set of specialized courses for their chosen concentration—reflecting the unique requirements of preparation for and practice of the corresponding profession.

Plus, each concentration has been verified to reflect the current pre-requisites outlined by each profession’s accrediting organization.

‘one-size-fits-all’ approach to health care professions school preparation,” said Jones. “Students can choose a tailored concentration for their path. And, since these concentrations prepare students for related professions, there is some flexibility for students to change concentration as they modify their career goals during college.”

Alumni from the program have gone on to become successful doctors, dentists, pharmacists, occupational therapists, optometrists, veterinarians, speech pathologists, physician assistants, and more.

“IWU not only gave me the educational platform I needed to be successful in medical school but also connected me with mentors, research, community outreach, and volunteer opportunities that strengthened my dedication to serve underserved populations,” said Dr. Kayla Thomas, a 2017 IWU alum who is an internist and pediatrician at OSF Saint Francis Medical Center in Illinois. “I’m very grateful for my time at IWU and every professor and mentor that helped shaped the doctor I am today.”

you get the idea. Near the end, the announcer says if you are like her, be sure to get all the important things for your fun evening, keys, chewing gum, phone and, oh yeah, a nasal spray that will bring you back from the brink of death in case of a drug overdose.

Wait, what? Oh, and the commercial came from the good folks at the Centers for Disease Control – of in other words, our government.

Look, on one hand, I get it. Drug overdoses are expensive and they take time that first responders might be spending saving others who haven’t caused their own predicament. So if it’s going to happen, why not get in front of it?

Sorry, this isn’t about dollars and cents. This is wrong.

Very. Very. Wrong. First off, when did the government get into the business of condoning drug use? No, I’m not talking about the idiot district attorney in Indianapolis who picks and chooses which laws to enforce. This is the federal government – a source that some people still think has all the right answers.

Are you telling me that if a 10-year-old sees this commercial that they don’t come away with the idea that drug use is OK? After all, the CDC is saying, HEY YOU GOOFY KIDS – GO OUT, HAVE A GREAT TIME AND IF YOU PARTY TOO MUCH AND TAKE TOO MANY NARCOTICS, IT’S OK!

You simply can’t make this stuff up.

This is the same government that not too long ago issued guidelines on “gender-affirming care and young people” that actually states: “Research demonstrates that gender-affirming care improves the mental health and overall well-being of gender diverse children and adolescents.” (<https://opa.hhs.gov/sites/default/files/2022-03/gender-affirming-care-young-people-march-2022.pdf>)

I’ve asked before and I’ll ask again, how is that not criminal? I guess because it’s from the Department of Health and Human Services – a cabinet-level department.

How can our tax dollars be used to create programs, messages and slick advertisements that not only condone immoral and illegal acts, but endorse them?

We are so far off the rails in our country today that it’s frightening.

Whether we are talking about abortion or serious drug use, it seems to me that an important part of the debate is completely ignored – abstinence.

It wasn’t all that long ago in this country the idea of pre-marital sex was wrong. It wasn’t that long ago that the government penalized drug use, especially the harder drugs, instead of making available get-out-of-OD-free cards.

Of course, you can’t have that conversation. Celebrities like Pink and several others have issued profane-ridden messages that tell those of us who disagree with her to F off. Their argument is that the government can’t tell women what to do with their bodies.

Hasn’t the government been telling us what to do with our bodies since 1776? We’re told when we can drink and how much we can put into our bodies without risk of going to jail. We’re told when we can smoke, when we can speak out if we disagree . . . It’s actually a pretty long list of what the government tells us we can and can’t do with our bodies. But those folks don’t seem to have a problem with anything that encourage drug use, pre-marital sex and perverse acts many people see as a sin.

Here’s a chilling thought? How much worse could Sodom and Gomorrah have been? I mean c’mon. Did you see the gay pride parade last month in Indianapolis? It was certainly celebrated by sponsors Delta Faucet, Indianapolis Airport Authority, Eskenazi Health, AES Indiana and Majestic Care. Indy TV told us what a wonderful event it was. What they didn’t show or talk much about was some of the men dressed as women with very revealing outfits.

I’m all for equal rights and for showing decency and respect to my fellow man. But there’s a big difference between that and celebrating what a lot of us believe is wrong. Promoting drug use, gay and trans lifestyles, killing of babies . . . let’s ask again: How much worse could Sodom and Gomorrah have been?

es and strangers have benefits for you individually, and for our community.

Talking to people you don’t know has benefits for you: it actually makes you happier. A study of college students asked them to count how many people they talked to in a day, and divided conversation partners into two groups: strong ties (good friends) or weak ties (someone you don’t know very well). Unsurprisingly, students who had more interactions with strong ties were happier. What is more surprising is that, independent of interactions with strong ties, students who had more interactions with weak ties were happier, and reported feeling a greater sense of belonging to the community. This relationship is not simply the result of personality, because the same person was happier on days they talked to more weak ties than on days they talked to fewer weak ties.

So if talking to people we don’t know very well makes us happier, why don’t we do it more often? Another study suggests that people avoid talking to strangers because overestimate the costs and underestimate the benefits. This study asked people to engage in conversations with strangers that reveal personal information; it found that people systematically underestimate how interested the other person will be in their stories, and overestimate how awkward they will feel in the conversation. People also underestimate how connected they will feel after talking to a stranger. Talking to strangers makes you happier than expected, so you probably avoid such conversations more than you should.

Talking to people you don’t know also has benefits for society as a whole. People who have more interactions with people they don’t know very well have stronger support for democratic institutions such as free speech. One of the problems with our democracy is that people rarely talk to others who disagree with them. We live in our own little bubbles, and social media has made this sorting worse. Unfortunately, having an interest in politics seems to make things worse; the greater someone’s interested in and knowledge of politics, the less likely they are to talk to someone they disagree with. This separation robs us of the opportunity to hear and understand the view of the other side. The continuation of our democracy depends on seeing people who disagree with us as real people with rational reasons for their views, rather than as evil people who must be defeated. Talking with someone who disagrees with your position increases your awareness of the arguments for the other side, and also makes you more likely to support the free speech rights of those you disagree with.

Unfortunately, technology is changing our lives in a way that reduces the number of interactions we have with people we don’t know. Tellers have been largely replaced by ATMs, and cashiers by checkouts where we scan our own purchases. If we work online we leave our homes less often, and when we do leave home we are often inside our cars, where we don’t encounter strangers. Compared to 50 years ago, fewer people are members of clubs or churches.

While opportunities to talk to acquaintances and strangers have declined, there are still opportunities. Sometimes we interact with strangers as a part of our economic lives: we meet customers, clients, co-workers on a daily basis. Sometimes we are stuck next to people we don’t know for a period of time: while waiting in line, or on public transportation. If you go outside you might meet your neighbors. Public events, clubs and organizations bring people together. Watch for these opportunities, and take advantage of them. If you seek out opportunities to talk to people you don’t know, you will be happier, and your community will be healthier.

HISTORIES

1958. It becomes Jake’s obsession to prevent the Kennedy Assassination. Each attempt he makes takes a different and unexpected turn, will he be able to alter history?

If you are looking for a traditional Alternate History book, you might want to try Roma Eterna by Robert Silverberg (FIC Sil). It asks the question of what would have happened if the Roman Empire never crumbled. What would have happened when they encountered the prophet Mohammad? Or how would they have interacted with the Mayan Empire? And even further down the line, what would have happened in the age of space travel?

My favorite Alternate History story is River of Teeth by Sarah Gailey (FIC Gai). In real life, the United States government once considered a plan to import hippopotamuses into the marshlands of Louisiana to be bred as a meat source. As Hippos are incredibly dangerous this plan was luckily abandoned, but River of Teeth is a wild west-esq story about hippo riders in the American Southwest as they travel the rivers and bays.

Of all the books on the display, I am most excited to read The Calculating Stars by Mary Robinette Kowal (FIC Cow). This book is set in a world where in 1952 a large meteorite fell to earth and destroyed much of the east coast, and started a climate cataclysm that will soon render Earth inhospitable for humanity (like what happened to the dinosaurs). The threat causes an accelerated effort to colonize space. Elma York is an experienced WASP pilot and mathematician working in the International Aerospace Coalition attempting to put a man on the moon. But she soon wonders why, with so many skilled female pilots and scientists in the program, they aren’t being considered for space flight. She becomes determined to be the first Lady astronaut.

These are only a few of the possible alternate histories that you can discover in our display. It has everything from Zombie Apocalypses to the trials of the traitor George Washington. If this concept interests you, come check out the display between now and July 15th.

Hearing Loss Makes Your BRAIN WORK HARDER

If you're struggling to hear, you don't just miss a few sounds here or there. New research shows that adults with hearing loss experience a 40% faster decline in cognitive abilities. This suggests that the entire brain may be struggling to fill in the gaps caused by untreated hearing loss.

Beltone Hearing Care Practitioners point to new research. "Several studies have done imaging to look at the brains of people with varying degrees of hearing loss," Beltone says.

With normal hearing, the section of the brain that's responsible for hearing lights up during imaging. But the scans reveal a different picture for a person with untreated hearing loss. Researchers found that the hearing center of the brain shrinks in age-related hearing loss. Therefore, other areas of the brain necessary for memory and thinking must take over to help compensate. That's why people with hearing loss are more fatigued at the end of the day. Your brain is having to work harder if you have untreated hearing loss.

"We want to keep you as healthy as we possibly can. And with hearing aids, you're not only taking care of your hearing and your relationships, but we have the potential, because of the auditory stimulation, to provide benefit for your brain health."

The symptoms may be obvious when you're struggling to hear your grandchild or trying hard to follow a conversation in a crowded place, but many people do not realize that even when you're home alone or in a quiet environment, your brain is still having to work harder than it should to compensate for your hearing loss.

Thankfully, research is showing that when hearing loss is detected early and treated with hearing aids, the brain can reorganize itself back to its usual operation. This research may help explain the link between hearing loss, cognitive decline and memory loss.

Beltone Hearing Care Practitioner

Beltone Hearing Care Practitioners say "We want to keep you as healthy as we possibly can. With hearing aids, you're not only taking care of your hearing and your relationships, but we have the potential, because of the auditory stimulation, to provide benefit for your brain health. Hearing loss is not just about your ears. A lot of people tell us that they 'get by just fine', but we remind them that they need to think beyond communication and instead think in terms of overall health."

BUILD A RELATIONSHIP with a Hearing Care Specialist you can trust

If you've had a hearing exam before, you can expect a very different experience when you walk into Beltone. The Specialists readily admit that their goal is to help treat hearing loss, not to sell you a hearing aid.

"Often people walk in and their guard is up," say Beltone. "We get it. They say, 'I don't want to be sold to'. I say, 'Great! You're in a great spot!' We're health professionals, working in your best interest."

While many folks shop for the lowest price for hearing aids, it is highly recommended to shop for the best healthcare professional that you feel comfortable with to ensure your satisfaction and success.

"Think of your hearing in terms of the whole package. If you needed knee surgery, would you shop for the cheapest implant or the most qualified and experienced surgeon to provide the best product, outcome and follow-up care?"

You will be satisfied not when you pay the lowest price but when you get the best overall value for your investment, which is why at Beltone we are professional hearing care specialists that offer the most advanced hearing technology and service.

We pull from over 80 years of hearing healthcare experience and expertise to truly customize options to each individual budget and lifestyle.

Instead of focusing solely on price, We suggest you meet with a hearing care specialist who can not only determine if you have hearing loss and suggest a course of treatment, but work with you every step of the way to improve your quality of life.

"We come at hearing in terms of overall health. We want to build a relationship with you throughout your life. We understand the emotional and financial investment involved, which is why our goal is to keep you hearing your best for as long as we possibly can," Beltone says.

Beltone will provide an honest and clear path for your hearing loss. At Beltone we stand behind everything we do. If you're unhappy with the devices, we don't want you to leave them in the drawer. We set people up for success so they have a positive experience. We know it's an investment, and that's why we're going to take care of you.

TIME TO TAKE YOUR HEARING HEALTH SERIOUSLY

Hearing may be the most underappreciated of the five senses. If you can't see well, of course, you'll visit a licensed eye doctor to get glasses or contacts to correct your vision. But, in this day and age, people are still hesitant to see a hearing care specialist, professionals that are highly trained to treat hearing loss.

"The reasons are endless," says Beltone. "Many of us don't think we're old enough to need hearing aids, or we worry they'll make us look older. Some of us don't think our hearing loss is bad enough to need help, or we're worried about the cost."

The fact is that even a mild hearing loss may be affecting your brain function, your sense of balance and your relationships with family and friends.

"Hearing loss is hard on relationships."

You may think the simple solution is to just turn the TV louder or ask your kids or grandkids to speak up, but even a mild hearing loss can affect you in countless ways. If your hearing is at all impaired, your brain has to work harder, trying to make out words and sounds. A hearing loss can make it harder to interact in social situations, to spend time with family, or to be productive at work. Research has linked untreated hearing loss with cognitive decline, dementia and an increased risk of falls.
