By the time a child is 3, they will go through 5,000 to 6,000 diapers, a huge cost for low-income parents, about which Montgomery

Health Department staff heard at a local event. Ever perceptive to better serving the community, they kicked off the diaper pantry on Jan. 4. The diaper pantry offers 50 free diapers a month to families that complete an educational program.

Two Fellows I'll Always Remember...

BUTCH DALE Columnist

As a youngster I always tagged along with my Dad when he went to Darlington, which was almost every day. He could always find some excuse to take a break from farming.

visit were Alex Cox's filling station, the restaurant, drug store, pool room, Warren Hardware, the Legion Hall and Slim Greve's barbershop. There were always other farmers at these locations, too, as they had driven to town for a pack of cigarettes, or chewing tobacco, or coffee or a bottle of Coke or Nehi soda pop . . . so they could take a break.

Gene Smith, John Ames, Bernard Hole, Wally Peebles and of course the Welievers...Hab, Dick, Don and Jimmy. Also present were the many townsfolk fellows who were in and out to do their share of loafing and catch up on the latest news.

A Newspaper of Innovation

What's the old saying, if you can't find a way . . . make one. Well, dear readers, the little paper that could can't seem to find a way to hire sales reps.

TIM TIMMONS Two Cents

Well, OK, to be fair, it's not just us. I was talking to publishers from around the country and this seems to be a universal problem. There are a lot of theories for why, but some of the language I heard probably isn't suitable for a family newspaper. (Although, after seeing what some of the books allowed in school libraries contain, I'm not sure where that line is anymore.)

could be greater than the little paper that could, right?). So try as we might to recruit good folks to take their places, it just seems to get harder and harder to find people who want to work in a sales career where you eat what you kill.

"Doozy" Dane, John "Deacon" Larrick, Harley Cain and Frank Cox . . . just to mention a few.

In addition to those who came and went, there were two fellows who ALWAYS seemed to be present . . . John Thompson and Hal Royer. John graduated from Bowers High School in 1933. Dad told me that John had a small farm northwest of town, but I have my doubts that he did much farming. He was in town more than he was on his farm. His specialty was drinking coffee, smoking and listening to others' conversations. He just never said much at all. Likely needing money, Harriett, his wife, bought the restaurant one year on contract from Raymon Brown. Harriett came to work at 5 a.m. and worked all day, preparing and serving the food, ordering supplies, doing the bookkeeping, and then cleaning at the end of the day . . . finishing up around 10 p.m. John just sat on a stool, smoked, and drank coffee . . . only taking time to eat his three meals or wander outside to sit on a bench and watch traffic go by. To no one's surprise, poor Harriett worked herself to death. A few days after her funeral, John was sitting on a bench in front of the restaurant with my uncle Ab, who offered his condolences. "John, I was sure sorry to hear about Harriett . . . she was a great lady, and I know you will miss her." John took a drag from his cigarette, hesitated, sighed, and replied, "Can Atrazine weed killer be used on soybeans?" The other permanent loafer was Hal Royer. His parents were Harry "Buck" and Clara Royer, who lived in a large house at the corner of Main and Franklin . . . right in the middle of downtown. Hal graduated from Darlington High School in 1942 in the same class as my Dad. Buck was a welder his entire life, but Hal showed no interest in that profession. Hal served in the army during the Korean War, and when he returned, did odd jobs around town. Hal never married. As far as I know, he never dated. I don't believe Hal ever owned a car either. He always wore plain green or brown work clothes, black work shoes, white socks, and a cap. At various times, he was a custodian at the National Guard armory here in town, dug graves by hand at the Greenlawn cemetery, and worked part-time at the grocery, where he lived in an apartment upstairs after his mother passed away. However, if you wanted to find him, you just had to visit any of the loafing spots in town. As a small child, I thought perhaps Hal actually lived at Slim's barbershop. He was a "talker" for sure . . . anything and everything was ripe for conversation . . . especially the weather, politics and local high school sports. Hal had a distinct, nasal-sounding voice which a few pranksters and teenagers would try to imitate when he wasn't around. Hal was an expert on sports and statistics. He knew scores, player averages and coaching records on just about every team in the county. Hal attended many of the basketball games. He never sat on the bleachers with the crowd, but instead stood in the hallway under the scoreboard, and he kept a scrapbook of newspaper clippings of all of the games.

Hal's second most favorite place to loaf was the drug store owned by Arthur and Pauline Friend, and later on by Gene and Pee Wee Harmon. As I mentioned in the article about Harmon's Sundries, Hal's favorite saying was, "Gimme another dip of vaniller there, Geno." He would sit there on a stool at the counter for hours, eating his ice cream, drinking a Coke and relating facts, figures and opinions to Gene, Pee Wee and their helper, Mary Hankins . . . or to anyone else who might show up. In later years, he would walk four blocks to the Legion, drink a beer, and walk back to his apartment. Hal passed away several years ago. He was a very friendly person indeed, but I always felt sorry for Hal, who never had a wife or family or any really close friends. However, I truly believe that even though Hal was a bit odd, he was truly a happy soul.

John Thompson and Hal Royer . . . neither one rich or famous. But two unique smalltown personalities who I will always remember.

leading killer in 2022 after COVID 19, the World Health Organization reported. The Indiana Health Department reported that "the highest rates of TB occur in Hoosiers who are 25 to 64 years of age. Here in Indiana risk factors for TB include HIV infection, homelessness, drug and alcohol use, diabetes and residence in a correctional facility. There were 99 cases of TB in Indiana in 2022 and 124 in 2021. One of the most prevalent epidemics affecting communities like ours is addiction. For those who need crisis intervention, the mobile health unit can deploy with police in the event of an overdose. Many people do recover, if their community can keep them alive through the darker periods of fighting addiction. MCHS helps to combat the epidemic through harm-reduction strategies. MCHD provides the county's Naloboxes where citizens can find an opioid rescue kit, naran and fentanyl strip testing. Naloboxes are at multiple locations including the Community Paramedicine Building on 218 E. Pike St., Wabash Ave. Presbyterian at 307 Wabash Ave., Recovery Rec Center at 1300 Ladoga Rd., Montgomery County Probation Office at 317 Binford Ave, VFW Post 1431 at 117 N. Water St. and the Health Department at 1380 Constitution Rd. They can also provide safe use kits, but it is crucial to know that they do not provide needle exchange, only kits that include clean, sterilized items such as sterile water, clean cotton balls, soap, etc. They provide full safe use kits to the quick response team that helps answer certain emergency calls. Safe use kits include tourniquets and cookers that are clean and sterile so individuals using these items are not having to reuse contaminated items that may transmit disease, virus, or bacteria.

"This program is a way to meet people where they are at on their journey with substance use and that our goal is to protect those on this journey from disease, bacteria, or a virus by providing sterile items," Diamond said. For residents worried about the conditions of their housing, toxic levels of lead or unsanitary conditions, MCHD "follows state guidelines and codes to ensure that homes within Montgomery County are free of unsanitary conditions that could cause illness or disease for the occupants of the home." They can inspect homes and deem them unfit if the unsanitary conditions are severe enough to put the occupants' health at risk. "We provide resources such as chore charts, information on proper sanitizing, tips and tricks, dangers of health hazards in the home, etc.," said Diamond.

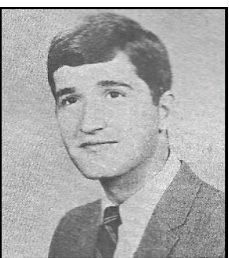

The health department provides a case manager to any county resident experiencing a housing crisis because of an unfit home to connect them to resources. Case managers can do lead testing, lead home visits and lead education – lead poisoning is common in older homes where layers of paint include lead. Lead can be in pipes and leach in to soil. In children, it can cause developmental delays, but it can be reversible. One other highly sought after service is providing birth and death certificates for those who were born or died here. Folks who have been recently released from jail, those on probation, experiencing homelessness, who've survived a housefire often struggle to obtain their birth certificate, a critical document for obtaining benefits, housing assistance, IDs and more. With MCHD's "waived fee program" individuals experiencing such hardships can come to the health department to obtain a birth certificate free of charge. "The only stipulation is that a third party must verify this person's situation. Examples of a third party could be probation, QRT, the police or sheriff's department, etc. We accept this via a letter on their letter head or an email with their full legal name, date of birth, and a quick description of the situation," Diamond presented.

We have the luxury of living in a country – and county – where water and sewage are well monitored. MCHD regularly tests public pools, beaches and can also test private pools for E. coli and coliform, to ensure swimmers are not at risk. They also provide permits to install or repair septic systems for those who live outside of city limits. Wondering who handles vector control – spraying for mosquitos borne illnesses? MCHD provides this service to prevent mosquito borne illnesses that show up in Indiana, including West Nile virus. They monitor for incidents of such illness by having interns set traps, collect, count and label specimens throughout each summer. Finally, should there be a disaster – tornado, mass flooding, mass shooting – MCHD has plans and a control center to organize response teams. If you have questions or are seeking services, call the MCHD office at (765) 364-6440 or email at health.reception@montgomerycounty.in.gov.

us are MUCH higher.) There I go digressing again. Back to that not-finding-a-way-and-making-a-new-one thing – we were faced with a similar dilemma several years ago when it became increasingly difficult to get newspaper carriers for home delivery. Like sales, the great ones moved on and we struggled to get good hires. So we turned to an innovative approach and became one of the very few newspapers in Indiana to lean on the U.S. Postal Service for same day newspaper delivery. Service improved immediately and we've never looked back. We're hoping to find a similar positive outcome. Introducing self-service advertising sales. Hey, who's really going to miss pushy sales people calling on the phone? Here's the way it will work. We're rolling out the program and will do our best to get it in front of as many businesses as possible. Then, without the annoyance of those pushy telemarketers, businesses can select whatever advertising package they want and simply e-mail it back to us at customerfirst@thepaper24-7.com and we'll take care of the rest. And here's the thing – without having to pay those annoying sales people, we can actually reduce the price of the ads. Now c'mon, how many companies (or governments) do you know who find their costs reduced and actually pass the savings along to the customer? (Truth to tell, probably more companies than governments.) Just saying. (Sorry, I keep digressing.) We're also trying to keep this as simple as 1-2 . . . no, there's no 3. It's just as easy as 1-2. In fact, if the good folks who handle the design of this newspaper will help me out here, there's an ad explaining ALL the details that will be right beneath this column. So hey, if you are in business and if you are enjoying not having those pesky sales people bothering you, then please take advantage of this self-service program. Let's be innovative together! *Two cents, which is about how much Timmons said his columns are worth, appears periodically in The Paper.
